

Sawdust Shortage Here Early

Frost Brings Fuel Concern

Victoria this morning was covered with the heaviest frost of the season, so thick in some districts that it looked like "ole man winter" had moved in overnight.

Many motorists who left their cars outside found a heavy layer of frost on the roofs of their vehicles and in some cases had to scrape ice from their windshields.

The frost was a warning to motorists to fill up with anti-freeze.

In some low-lying areas the mercury registered a low of 30 degrees, but at points near the sea the thermometer did not drop below 36 degrees.

Clear skies and another frosty morning were predicted by the weatherman for Thursday.

SAWDUST SHORT
Sawdust, the "bad boy" of the fuel family, is acting up again—as usual.

Many dealers are taking no more orders until January, and according to one office manager many customers have been without sawdust for several weeks.

Reasons for the shortage are the same as in previous years, with lack of storage space in homes and general scarcity of fuel leading the list.

A new complication was added this year in the 10-weeks woods closure during the summer.

NEVER CATCH UP
"We usually manage to move quite a bit of sawdust in July and August, but we were cut off completely this year," a dealer said. "We will never catch up this winter."

In other departments the fuel situation is fair.

At present coal is arriving regularly, but in smaller quantity due to diversion of cars to handle the prairie grain crop.

Solid wood fuel is in fair supply, and deliveries can be handled within a few days. Both green and dry wood are reported available.

Stove and furnace oil supplies are more than adequate.

A bad winter, however, would start off a chain reaction that could cause a lot of discomfort.

Logging camps would have to close, and the millwood source would dry up. Transportation difficulties between here and Alberta would slow down the supply of coal. And the situation would be aggravated further by the increased demand from the public.

"We're not out of shape now," fuel dealers agreed generally, "except for sawdust. The rest depends on the weather."

M'Arthur Gets Mixed Greeting From Seattle

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 14 (UP).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, ignoring charges he offered himself as a G.O.P. presidential candidate at what was supposed to be a non-partisan celebration, went ahead with plans today to greet 1,291 returning veterans of the Korean war.

With the general on the speakers' platform (10 a.m. PST) will be Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington, Mayor William F. Devin and other dignitaries.

But at least one invited guest counted himself out—Congressman Hugh B. Mitchell Tuesday night flatly rejected an invitation to take part after hearing MacArthur charge this nation's leadership with "diplomatic blunders abroad and reckless spend-thrift aims at home."

The Washington Democrat, a staunch supporter of President Truman's administration, accused MacArthur of "subverting" Seattle's 100th birthday celebration with "gross partisan politics."

"In my time, I recall of no more demagogic speech," Mitchell said. "I have long suspected that MacArthur fancied himself in the role as the Republican presidential nominee. I am firmly of that opinion after listening to him Tuesday night."

Appealing Orphans

If the kitten and the pup don't look happy it's because they haven't a home. They're living as wards of the S.P.C.A. That's Mrs. Maureen Maggs, wife of the S.P.C.A. inspector, holding them. The kitten and the pup are among a number of dogs and cats at the S.P.C.A. shelter up for adoption. The puppy has had a rough life so far. She was taken from her mother and abandoned. She'd caught pneumonia before she was found and given shelter. The Springer spaniel pup was turned out of an apartment by a landlord who didn't like dogs. They are free for the asking to any family which will promise to give them a good home. (Times Photo)

EGYPTIANS STAGE HUGE MARCH AGAINST BRITISH

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 14 (UP).—Nearly 1,000,000 Egyptians marched with muted tongues through the heart of Cairo today in a remarkably disciplined demonstration against the British.

The solemn procession, headed by 73-year-old Premier Mustapha El-Nahas Pasha, stretched for three full miles as it inched towards King Farouk's Abdin palace.

Police commandant Mourad El-Kholi Bey said there were nearly 1,000,000 marchers—one of the largest demonstrations in history.

The paraders kept their eyes to the front and their mouths shut. Their feet made a steady, pounding rhythm. It was so quiet the rustling of women's robes could be heard.

Canada-U.S. Crack Down On Stock Racketeering

High-Pressure Canadian Promoters Face Extradition Under New Pact

OTTAWA, Nov. 14 (CP).—Canada and the United States have moved to crack down on international stock racketeers.

Prime Minister St. Laurent disclosed in the Commons Tuesday that the two countries have agreed to add to their list of extraditable offences, fraud and use of the mails in fraud committed in connection with transactions in securities.

This will give authorities in both countries a new weapon in their long fight against high-pressure Canadian stock promoters, centred principally around Toronto, who thrive by defrauding gullible U.S. investors in bogus stock deals.

The agreement, by way of a supplementary convention to the Canada-U.S. Extradition Treaty, was signed here Oct. 26 and becomes effective on ratification by the U.S. Senate, now adjourned to January. Canadian law requires no such approval, but the proposal will be submitted to parliament for consideration.

Mr. St. Laurent's announcement overshadowed debates on government motions to establish a committee on defence expenditures and to appoint an agricultural products board.

While approving proposed amendments to the Extradition Act aimed at strengthening Canada-U.S. relations on security frauds, Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer said today "effective scrutinizing of all issues" is the best solution to the problem.

"And it should be made certain that the proper persons are handling the issues. The wrong sort of people shouldn't be allowed to get licenses," he said.

The proposed amendments, approved by Canada, concern two sections of the Criminal Code, dealing with the use of mails and fraud in the sale of securities. Under the amendment, these two offences, now punishable only under the Code, would be made extraditable offences. At present, extradition proceedings are limited to "false pretences."

The new amendments have been devised as a means of helping U.S. authorities who long have complained that they were hampered in their efforts to curb high-pressure stock salesmen operating throughout the U.S.

The present approach is to attempt to equate the federal laws of both countries, respecting fraud.

It is believed certain B.C. government officials would have preferred another approach to the problem, but local dealers and the Vancouver Stock Exchange approved the proposed plan so the government didn't lodge any objection.

Navy Probes Identity Of Officer

Bidwell Report Moves To Ottawa

Investigation of the identity, qualifications and background of the mystery man who called himself Dr. Joseph C. Cyr when he was attested a surgeon-lieutenant by the R.C.N., has been undertaken and is probably completed.

Today the Navy's Esquimalt base reported to Ottawa.

It said: Surg-Lieut. Cyr had arrived by air from the Korean war theatre Tuesday. An investigation had been undertaken in H.M.C.S. Naden, a board of officers headed by Commander of Barracks R. E. S. Bidwell, R.C.N., had sat. Findings of the investigation will be forwarded. That is all.

The Navy also stated, emphatically, that any statement on the result of its board's findings would come from Ottawa.

"PHILOSOPHICAL"
Meanwhile, the man who calls himself Cyr... and whose real name may be Cecil Hamann... is lodged at Naden's naval hospital. He sees no one but the naval personnel who necessarily come into contact with him. They are tight-mouthed.

But before the Navy's "gag" order came down, officers spoke freely and highly of the Cayuga's surgeon. He was popular and efficient. He was a man of over six feet, weighing 240 pounds or more, dark-haired, heavy-shouldered.

There was only one glimpse of his reactions to the investigation. He seemed philosophical, not resentful nor alarmed, it was learned.

When the man's fame as a surgeon spread across Canada, following a series of major surgery cases among South Korean troops brought aboard the R.C.N. destroyer Cayuga, the story attracted a protest from an authentic Dr. Joseph C. Cyr, practising in Grand Falls, N.B. His certification documents had mysteriously disappeared, he reported.

LOST PAPERS
The navy instituted an inquiry. The result was the suspension of "Surg-Lieut. Cyr." Action has been swift but silent.

The suspect officer was flown to Esquimalt, under escort of Surg-Lieut. Walter Little and Lieut.-Cmdr. L. G. Clayards, staff officer security.

Investigation undertaken by the Frederick Glenier discloses that Dr. Cyr, at Grand Falls, is well acquainted with Cecil Hamann.

Hamann, he told the newspaper, had been given his (Cyr's) medical certificate documents in 1951 to deliver to Augusta, Me., as proof of the doctor's eligibility to obtain a state medical license. He never saw them again.

These papers, it is suggested, were the basis of Hamann's application for naval service.

Hamann may be a graduate of Purdue University in Indiana.

WARREN SEEKS PRESIDENCY
SACRAMENTO, Calif., Nov. 14 (UP).—Republican Governor Earl Warren of California announced today he is a candidate for President.

The 60-year-old three times governor told a crowded press conference that "with all humility, I have concluded to become a candidate."

He said he would permit a group of top-ranking G.O.P. leaders in the state to submit his name in the presidential primary in California next June. He said he would decide "in the proper season" whether he would urge his candidacy in other states.

'Dead' Woman Progressing
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14 (UP).—San Francisco physicians, amazed at the sudden improvement in a woman who was believed to have been dead for 10 hours, said today opinions on the criteria of death may have to be altered.

The woman, Mrs. Theresa Butler, regained consciousness and talked rationally Tuesday for the first time since she was pronounced dead six days ago.

City Health Director J. C. Geiger said from all medical information now available, Mrs. Butler will recover completely.

Dr. Thomas E. Albers, San Francisco hospital superintendent, said he "just can't explain" Mrs. Butler's recovery despite an apparent shortage of oxygen in her system for several hours prior to her revival on the steps of the morgue Thursday.

"It just can't happen," Albers said, "but it has. I feel sure that the entire staff of doctors taking care of her feels the same way."

Reds Ask Immediate Cease-Fire Decision

SMALL NATIONS APPEAL FOR END TO 'COLD WAR'

PARIS, Nov. 14 (AP).—Spokesmen from the smaller countries at the United Nations' General Assembly today urged the great powers to compose their differences and avoid the dread destruction of a Third World War.

The most fervent and direct appeal was made by Denmark's foreign minister, Ole Bjørn Kraft. He asked leaders of the Soviet Union to grasp "the hand extended by the west."

Speakers from Colombia, Uruguay and Paraguay pointed out that small countries had to pay the price of world war, although only the big powers had the means to start one.

VICTORIA CHINESE PAY RED BLACKMAIL

Communist Government Threatens Lives Of Relatives With Extortion Demands

(Chinese in Victoria, terror-stricken by threats against the lives of their relatives in the Canton area, told a grim story of Red extortion to the Times today. For reasons of the security of their families in China, the names of Chinese interviewed cannot be divulged.)

The more than 3,000 Chinese in Victoria—and other thousands throughout B.C.—have been stirred to indignation, tinged with terror, by the extortion demands of the Communist government reaching them here.

Thousands of dollars every week are being airmailed or cabled to Hongkong for transfer to the Communist authorities in Canton to save the lives of relatives of B.C. Chinese.

"Sometimes," said a prominent Chinese today, "our people cannot pay. For instance, a friend of mine was asked by his old father, a man over 80, to send $10,000 urgently. But my friend had no such amount. The old man hanged himself rather than submit to the persecutions of the Communists."

The pattern of extortion is simple. The Communists in Canton, centre of government for the vast Kwangtung area, from which most of the B.C. Chinese originate, give an ultimatum to persons they know have relatives abroad.

The ultimatum is this: Pay a certain sum, according to your property holdings, under the new land reform laws or take the consequences. The consequences may be seizure of possessions or death. The property is lost, either way.

NO CERTAINTY
Nor is there any certainty that the payment of extortion will mean immunity in future. There have been no cases of repeated demands for foreign exchange.

"I estimate that at least $30,000 (Hong Kong) are being sent out of Victoria every week. Maybe more," said another well-known Chinese citizen, Victoria-born. "I myself have no relatives in China. But I know many who have."

The Hong Kong dollar is worth about 18 cents.

"What do these extortion notes say? They say: 'Communist government wants so many dollars for ransom. Your family (and the names are given), has been detained,' this authority continued.

"What does it mean? It means that if the money is not sent... sent immediately... these people will be liquidated. Maybe they would be liquidated anyway."

TERRIFIED
The doubt and fear inspired by these constant demands is causing great bitterness and grief among the Chinese people.

"We cannot see the end," they say. "We cannot see any end of this but tragedy. Only the elimination of the Communists themselves will save our families. Only death can end their lives of terror and horror. We know the executions are many. We do not know who will be next. Maybe our mothers or fathers, brothers or sisters."

Acheson at the Paris U.N. General Assembly.

The figures were eloquent testimony of the reason why the U.N. negotiators at Panmunjom refuse to call off the fighting until the Reds agree to release the American and other war prisoners they now hold.

Figures given in Washington last week showed the total of American fighting personnel missing in action since the war started as 10,864. Of course, many of these were killed in action.

Hanley said the North Koreans had murdered 7,000 South Korean war prisoners since last November. Untold thousands of civilians have been murdered also.

Citing the figures of the Chinese Red atrocities, Hanley said: "This is in sharp conflict with Chinese claims of compliance with the Geneva Convention in the treatment of war prisoners."

At Ottawa, an army headquarters spokesman said no communication has been received from Canadian officers in Korea regarding Communist atrocities.

He doubted if any Canadians are involved.

Only two Canadian soldiers are listed as missing from Canada's 25th Brigade in Korea and the spokesman said that does not necessarily mean that they had been taken prisoner.

Any Warfare Halt Has To Be On Foe's Terms

(From UP and AP Dispatches)
PANMUNJOM, Korea, Nov. 14 (UP).—The Communists for the first time today demanded at once and on their own terms a complete Korean cease-fire—on the ground, in the air and at sea.

Red truce negotiators said the cease-fire must come now or never. Unless the Allies yield, they said, they will refuse to go on to other items on the armistice agenda.

United Nations representatives on the cease-fire sub-committee again refused to consent to any reached on such items as the truce until an agreement has been reached on the thousands of Allied war prisoners.

The stalemated sub-committee nevertheless decided to meet again at 11 a.m. tomorrow (9 p.m. today E.S.T.).

The sub-committee set a new endurance record Wednesday with a single session of five hours and five minutes against a backdrop of a sharp firefight in the hills southeast of the Panmunjom conference tent.

Brig. Gen. William Nuckols, U.N. spokesman, said the Communists stated their position "clearly and unmistakably."

"They made it clear that what they want is a complete de facto cease-fire, not only on the ground, but in the air and on the sea," he said.

Previously the Reds had indicated by their insistence on making the present battle-line the cease-fire line that they envisioned only a truce in the ground fighting until agreement has been reached on other items on the armistice agenda.

Nuckols said the challenge was made by Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang, member of the Red's two-man sub-committee.

Hsieh's challenge came during a wrangle over whether a military demarcation line and buffer zone shall be established now, as the Reds insist, or whether the question shall be postponed until other armistice questions are settled.

The Allies refuse to agree formally to a line now, because they say that would establish an immediate cease-fire. This, they say, would take military pressure off the Reds and enable them to stall on other armistice terms.

Hsieh called this "fantastic talk."

"If that is the course you choose to follow," he said, "then why not stay away."

Nuckols released other quotations from the Red delegates to show:

1. They want to end the fighting now, in the air and on the sea as well as on the ground. A U.N. communiqué said this became "unmistakably clear."

2. The Reds say there will be no armistice unless the Allies agree to setting up a military demarcation line and buffer zone now.

3. The Reds agree that establishing a buffer zone now would "mean cease-fire in fact."

4. The Reds conceded that once established, a military demarcation line should not be changed later.

beginning to look like France in 1916.

"We need more troops, more ammunition, more everything if we are to win in Korea," Robertson said. "If we are prepared to resist something bigger we need more troops with experience in Korea to relieve those up there when the time comes."

"Things are pretty grim. With 2,000 shells an hour landing on one brigade area—mostly on one battalion area—the war is beginning to look like something from 1916 in France."

"The enemy is very well dug in for winter. We have had some severe fighting and it's going to continue. We could have a cease-fire tomorrow on enemy's terms but we should be a lot worse off."

Robertson, who arrived here from Japan today to take up a new post, said the Communists now are well equipped with modern weapons and aircraft. They appear to have no limit of ammunition, he said.

U.N. Planes Sweep Skies And Deal Foe New Blows
U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, KOREA, Nov. 14 (AP).—Allied planes today swept North Korean skies without challenge and dealt new blows to the crippled Communist rail system.

Far east air forces said B-26 light bombers destroyed eight locomotives in pre-dawn raids. Ten others were reported destroyed in the 24 hours ended at midnight Tuesday.

Allied fighter sweeps through Mig Alley in northwest Korea before noon Wednesday failed to turn up any Communist jets. It was the fourth straight day the Reds refused to tangle with U.N. planes.

U.N. ground forces Wednesday threw back two company-sized Red probing attacks on the western front and scattered a Communist platoon on the eastern front.

An Eighth Army Wednesday evening communiqué said there was no other significant action along the front.

Allied troops Tuesday beat back two vicious Red attacks at opposite ends of the line.

Late Tuesday night the Reds used about 10 tanks in a moonlight assault west of Chonwon on the western front. Red infantrymen followed under cover of mortar and tank fire.

The Chinese Communists were driven off after a 25-minute battle. At least two of their tanks were claimed destroyed.

On the eastern front, Allied troops counted 618 North Korean bodies on the battlefield after hurling back a co-ordinated attack by five Red battalions.

An Allied tank force pushed about 6,000 yards ahead of U.N. lines above Kumhwa on the central front. Four Allied tanks were damaged by Red fire, and only one was recovered.

Private Rites For H. Molson

Private funeral services will be held for H. Hobart Molson, 63, who died Monday night at his Foul Bay Road home.

In response to a long-standing request of Mr. Molson, the family has asked that no flowers be sent to the funeral. Hayward's have charge of arrangements.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

Something's loose in our record player or in the amplifying equipment. When the volume's stepped up or the notes are in low register, it produces a chattering sound, like the dishes aboard the old Princess Victoria at dinner time. Our machine doesn't exactly give you fidelity of tone. But it tries. It's getting old and it hasn't the smoothness of later models. All it rates now is an "A" for effort.

The discs we tried on it the other night were about the same vintage. Age had given them a thinness of tone, even without the scratchy sound. Just the same, there, in the background, was the music of "The Student Prince" and "The Desert Song."

Stott

I didn't try as I once did, to sing along with it. Something changed me from a boy soprano long before our machine and the records were brand new. And when they compare me to Sinatra, they say I'm several blocks back and up an alley.

Maybe our little record concert the other night wasn't a fitting memorial to Sigmund Romberg. His melodies deserve more than we could give them. All we had were a few selections distorted by too much playing. Yet the fact that they were worn out told its own story of our affection for his music.

Memory Lane

They take you back, those old pieces. They take you back to a world that seems to have blown away. We seemed more isolated then, more easily pleased, ready to make our own amusements. Those were the days when a family could sit in its front room, listen to someone playing the piano and join in the singing. It wasn't good singing, but it was good enough to make a pleasant evening.

People like Romberg were a little closer to us. They wrote the songs. We tried to express them. Somehow we managed to catch the spirit of them, the gay adventure, the bright romance, before we had been told how "romantic" was.

It seemed easy enough to build the magic of springtime around us, to find enchantment borne on the breeze. We knew the story of "The Student Prince" and we joined enthusiastically in "Serenade" and "Deep in My Heart." We made it all a part of our lives, riding the wings of fancy, not so much escaping from the humdrum of living as exploring some adventurous phase of it. Sure, we knew it was all imagination, but with the Romberg music it could seem convincing enough for an hour or two.

They take you back, those old pieces, back to days at Victoria College, with Don Watson or Jack Child sitting at the piano in Craigdarroch's blue room, thumping out the "Drinking Song."

Adventure of Youth

We were a bunch of guys in flannels and sweaters, not too prepossessing examples of a hard-times generation. But if you could have ignored the clothes, you might have seen in us some of the swagger of Heidelberg, and the sharp definition of the adventure of youth.

You caught something of that as you listened to the scratching record on the ageing player at our house the other night. You caught something of that and echoes of shouted numbers from "The Desert Song" as we howled homeward from a beach party behind the bouncing headlights of an old T-model Ford.

They seemed brave and sweet songs to us then. And to my generation, they're brave and sweet songs now, fragrant with the memories they bring.

You might think that those days and the like of those songs had gone, had died somewhere in an age that can't be recalled. You might think so unless you heard a new generation rolling along in more modern cars shouting selections from "Oklahoma" or "South Pacific."

The words are different, the tunes have changed. They speak of Oscar Hammerstein now, not Sigmund Romberg. Yet, behind it all, there is a vague familiarity. The singing is still the song of youth.

Victoria's Young Liberals will meet Thursday at 8 at Liberal Headquarters to hear a report on the recent Vancouver meeting of the national organization.

Guest speaker will be Dr. John M. Ewing of Victoria College. His subject will be "Social Credit."

15 British Sailors Face Mutiny Charge

RICHMOND, Calif., Nov. 14 (AP).—The British freighter Tacoma Star was stranded in San Francisco Bay today after 15 crew members refused to sail without a shipmate and were accused of mutiny by their skipper.

The ship—out of London—was scheduled to sail at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday for Los Angeles en route to Liverpool, but Ian MacGibbon, 24, of Gainsborough, Lincolnshire, hadn't shown up. Capt. Frank Hambidge said he would sail without MacGibbon, and 14 men walked off the ship.

Three hours later, just before the ship pulled out, MacGibbon boarded the ship. Mates on the dock yelled at him to get off. He jumped back onto the dock.

Richmond police were called and the men were jailed as "en route to immigration officials"—a technical holding charge.

Captain Hambidge then pulled out and anchored off Treasure Island to await action by British consular authorities.

A spokesman for the men said the men refused to sail because the crew already was short-handed.

Firemen Want Regulations Made Looser

Question of medical examinations and place of residence for Victoria firemen will be discussed at another meeting of City Council's legislative committee.

At a meeting Tuesday, David Pye, president of the Victoria local of International Firefighters' Association, asked that some security be provided those firemen rejected, should the city institute a system of annual medical examination.

The association members also asked the committee to permit firemen to live within a five-mile radius of city centre, so that veterans could build under Veteran's Land Act. At present firemen must live within city limits.

"There is no change of postage rates contemplated between now and Jan. 1, 1952, at which time the special concessionary rate on parcel post will be withdrawn; as requested by the United Kingdom," said Postmaster John B. Sinclair today.

"This will allow those wishing to send Christmas parcels to friends in Britain to do so at the special reduced rate."

Final day for mailing Christmas parcels to Britain, to ensure delivery by Dec. 25, is Nov. 17, and all such parcels should bear a customs declaration itemizing contents in detail, the postmaster said.

Condensed from CP, AP, and UP Dispatches

CORRESPONDENT—In Hollywood blond screen actress Janis Carter was named correspondent today in a separate maintenance suit filed by the wife of movie studio executive Noah Dietrich, 62.

Mrs. Carol Dietrich, 48, filed suit in superior court in suburban Santa Monica yesterday accusing her husband of extreme cruelty and charging he had been intimate with the actress "on numerous occasions" between Nov. 19, 1950, and Aug. 7, 1951.

LOUSY—The Toledo school board agrees with Toledo parents that Toledo public school is just plain lousy. So lousy, in fact, that the building has been closed until Nov. 19 to eliminate the lice. Last Friday parents went on strike against sanitary conditions in the two-room school, attended by some 60 pupils. They kept their children home in protest.

STRENGTHENED—In Vatican City a high Vatican source said today that Pope Pius XII will "most probably" hold a consistory early in 1952 to name new cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church.

The report was strengthened by an announcement of the secretary of state that the Pope will return to the Vatican from his summer residence at Castelgandolfo at the end of November.

RELIANCE—In Washington Republican backers of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower indicated today that they are relying on public opinion polls to put the brakes on any band wagon rush for Sen. Robert A. Taft.

The Eisenhower for president enthusiasts are planning to set up a national campaign organization, perhaps next week, to work for the general's nomination as G.O.P. candidate for the White House. Taft is the only vowed candidate for the nomination so far. Some of the Ohio Republican's supporters are exploiting doubts about Eisenhower's availability because the five-star general is tied up in western Europe building the North Atlantic Pact army.

LEADING—In Manila, Nacionalista candidates headed by the wartime puppet president of the Philippines today held a 240-lead over the administration's Liberal party slate for nine senate seats.

But only a trickle of returns had come in from Liberal strongholds. Approximately four-fifths of the vote from Tuesday's bloody election remained to be counted.

FREED—All but 70 of the 400 Doukhobors sentenced to the British Columbia penitentiary 18 months ago have been freed. Latest to be released was a group of five freed Tuesday.

Almost all of the Doukhobors released have returned to their homes in the Krestova and Brilliant districts of the province.

They had been sentenced in the spring of 1950 to an average of three years in prison on charges ranging from arson to nude parading.

EXCITED—In Pontiac, Mich., a well-to-do couple, so excited "we can't eat," meet today the 11 orphaned children they hope a judge will let them adopt.

John D. Babb, a prominent Pittsburgh insurance broker, and his wife, Jean, arrived last night to be present when Probate Court Judge Arthur E. Moore decides the future of the youngsters whose parents were killed last Saturday in an automobile accident.

"We're so excited we can't eat," said Mrs. Babb. "We want to get up early and 'sneak' out to the Moore home this morning and meet the children."

UNIMPORTANT—In Edmonton Most Rev. W. F. Barfoot, Anglican Primate of Canada, said today the war in Korea is a "forgotten war" to many Canadians at home.

The Archbishop of Edmonton, back from a visit to the front lines, said there is an "ominous danger" that the troops might "become infected with the feeling that Canadians at home have relegated the Korean war to a position of unimportance."

TOWING—The Coastguard cutter, Northwind headed towards Puget Sound today with the fire-damaged wheat ship George Walton in tow.

The cutter managed to get a towline aboard the abandoned vessel yesterday afternoon following several days of heavy seas and high winds.

The Coastguard said a commercial tug was standing by and that the Walton should reach Seattle by Friday. The Liberty ship was listing 25 degrees to port, the Coastguard said.

HONOR—R. Dwight Merrill, 82, wealthy Seattle lumberman, filed a petition in Superior Court Tuesday asking approval of his distribution of the $13,000,000 estate of the late Tommy Lee, son of radio and automobile mogul, Don Lee.

Young Lee, who leaped to his death from a Wilshire district building Jan. 13, 1950, willed the multi-million-dollar estate to Merrill, his uncle by marriage, to distribute among relatives "as he sees fit."

In seeking approval of distribution, Merrill said he felt "honored" to fulfill Lee's 27-word hand-written will, dated Dec. 6, 1944.

GERM—In Atlanta Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., believes there may be a "germ of truth" in a Washington newsman's report that President Truman offered to support Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for president.

Roosevelt said here yesterday he thinks this is true despite denials by Mr. Truman and Eisenhower of the report by Arthur Krock, correspondent for the New York Times.

Improved Relations Big Topic Churchill Plans For Ottawa Visit

LONDON, Nov. 14 (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill's visit to Canada will entail a general view of Anglo-Canadian relations, an official spokesman said today.

Although no firm agenda has yet been worked out for the Premier's January visit to Ottawa, it can be said the Conservative party hopes a new approach will be sought to problems facing the two countries.

During six years of Socialism, Conservatives were frequently critical of what they deemed to be a rather laconic Labor government attitude toward Canada. Among the many topics which will undoubtedly come up is the future structure of the Commonwealth. Ambitious Conservative proposals, outlined more than two years in a Commonwealth charter include the formation of a sort of Commonwealth supreme court—to supersede the privy council and to sit in turn in all Commonwealth capitals.

DEFENSE PROBLEMS
A permanent Commonwealth secretariat and closer linking of Commonwealth defense were also suggested.

Canada in the past has indicated she is chary of any such specific devices, preferring the great flexibility of the present association.

A spokesman for the Prime Minister said there are no details on how long Churchill will stay in Ottawa. The informant also said it was too early yet to comment on British press reports that the Premier, while in the United States, will spend a few days in Miami, Fla., as a guest of Canadian businessman Col. Frank Clarke.

Clarke, a Toronto-born pulp and paper magnate, is a close friend of Churchill.

SHARP QUAKE IN CALIFORNIA

EUREKA, Calif. (AP)—A severe earthquake rocked the Eel River Valley 45 miles south of here at 12:40 a.m. (3:40 a.m., E.S.T.) today.

It broke a window in the Humboldt Times building here and hurled merchandise from the shelves of stores in Fortuna, six miles south of Eureka.

But at the Little Eel River town of Scotia, where the quake centered, the telephone operator reported, "I know of no damage."

The tremor threw one of the pens off the seismograph at the University of California's station at nearby Ferndale.

HEARINGS—In Washington the house Un-American Activities Committee soon will reopen its investigation of Communism in the motion picture industry, it was disclosed today.

Committee Counsel Frank S. Tavenner, Jr., said the group plans to hold at least two days of hearings here—perhaps before Congress returns in January. No definite dates have been set, he said.

DEATH TOLL IN U.S. TRAIN WRECK 16; MAY BE INCOMPLETE

EVANSTON, Wyo., Nov. 14 (AP)—Sixteen bodies have been recovered from the wreckage of two swift passenger trains, but the final death toll and the cause of the accident both were unknown today.

The trains collided Monday. Workmen at the wreck said they believed they could see one body, maybe more, in the shredded coaches. Portions of other bodies protruded from the mess, but it was thought these might be parts of bodies already removed. Two bodies were recovered Tuesday.

Giant cranes and bulldozers worked to peel off layers of stacked wreckage, portions of what once were the streamlined cities of San Francisco and Los Angeles.

France To Cut Dollar Buying

Decision May Slash Foreign Imports 30-40%
As Reserves Believed Below $200,000,000

PARIS, Nov. 14 (Reuters)—The French government today decided to slash dollar imports by 30 to 40 per cent.

Rene Mayer, vice-premier and finance minister, persuaded the cabinet to set the total import figure for the dollar zone at $500,000,000.

Mayer indicated to the cabinet France was in for serious belt tightening, the spokesman said. The spokesman said French dollar imports from June, 1950, to June, 1951, were $650,000,000. Frenchmen will be pinched for coal, gasoline, cotton and newsprint due to the import slash, the cabinet spokesman indicated.

France's dollar reserves are believed below $200,000,000, compared with a pre-war backlog of $2,500,000,000 and a post-war average of $400,000,000.

France's trade deficit for the first 10 months of this year was $252,000,000 francs ($720,000,000) or twice what it was for the corresponding period in 1950. Mayer will go before parliament Friday to spell out what is expected to be a new austerity era for the country.

The cabinet will meet again tomorrow to fill in details of the announcements and to decide if the cabinet should stake its life on the issue—that is, ask a formal vote of confidence on the program.

Icing, Fog Hamper Hunt For U.S. Plane

WIESBADEN, Germany, Nov. 14 (AP)—Heavy icing and thick pea-soup clouds today hampered the aerial search for a missing United States Air Force flying boxcar feared down in the mountains of southeast France with 36 American military personnel aboard.

More than 60 planes, including some from U.S. air bases in England, took off at dawn to look for the big twin-engine C-52 transport. It disappeared Tuesday while flying 30 passengers and a crew of six from Frankfurt's Rhine main airport to the big U.S. supply base at Bordeaux.

The plane was last heard from shortly before noon Tuesday over the Moulins area of central France, 160 miles southwest of Paris. Air force officials feared the big ship might have hit a mountain peak.

Thick fog blanketed mountains in that section yesterday. Aerial searches last night could find no trace of the missing transport.

Duncan Youths Give Trouble

DUNCAN—Little people, little crime wave. Crimes in the last 10 days, ranging from arson to breaking and entering, have been traced by R.C.M.P. to juveniles.

On Friday a barn at the home of Mrs. M. Peters, Stratford Crossing, was destroyed by fire, allegedly set by two small boys who ignited a pile of paper with matches stolen from the Peters home. The boys will likely be dealt with by juvenile court.

Five other boys are scheduled to answer nine charges of breaking and entering and theft from business premises and homes.

Communicable Diseases Here Cut In Half

Communicable diseases were cut more than half in Victoria-Esquamalt area for the July, August and September period.

Dr. J. L. Gayton, medical health officer in the quarterly report of Union Board of Health Tuesday, said communicable diseases went from 548, in the previous quarter, to 218.

In the three months, there were two cases of poliomyelitis in Victoria-Esquamalt though several more were in the isolation ward from other South-Island areas.

For the nine months of this year 611 births were reported, compared with 582 for the same period last year.

Death rate to date is 318, compared with 289 for the first nine months of last year. Heart disease claimed 123, the greatest number. Cancer was second with 62.

Suspended U.S. Doctor Stands By Cancer Drug

Chicago Medical Society Debars University
Veep For 'Unethical Conduct' In Promotion

CHICAGO, Nov. 14 (UP)—Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, vice-president of the University of Illinois, said today he would continue his investigation of a drug for cancer treatment despite his suspension by the Chicago Medical Society for "unethical conduct" in "promoting" the substance.

The society announced the three-month suspension last night.

"Dr. Ivy," the society's statement said, "has been found guilty of unethical conduct and suspended for a period of three months by the Chicago Medical Society for the methods he employed in promoting a substance, known as 'krebiozen,' in the treatment of cancer."

The society said the suspension was decided upon after "several months" of study by its cancer committee.

"The cancer committee and the council felt that it was regrettable that Dr. Ivy would associate himself with a drug whose physical and chemical properties were kept a secret. This was a specific violation of medical ethics," the statement said.

Ivy denied both that he had violated any medical ethics or that krebiozen could be classed as a "secret" substance.

"No one believes more than I do in the principles of medical ethics and their just interpretation and enforcement," the world-famous physiologist said.

"Regardless of the majority decision of the society, I am not guilty of a breach of medical ethics. However, I shall not appeal (the suspension) and shall continue the investigation of the merits of krebiozen."

As for associating himself with a drug whose contents "were kept a secret," Ivy said he did not believe this applied to his handling of krebiozen.

"The spirit of that ethic is to prohibit an individual physician from attracting patients and making money because he says he has a secret remedy," Ivy said. "The clinical investigation which we are carrying on is free of charge to patients."

Park Livingston, president of the university's board of trustees, said he could not "pre-judge" the case.

VIVISECTION

On the occasion of the abolition of vivisection of dogs at the University of Mexico, the director of the medical school made this statement: "The claim that vivisection trains students in asepsia is a snare and a delusion for the simple reason that dogs are not as easily infected as humans. The dog's resistance as compared with human's is enormous. Any carelessness in sterilization which would have no effect whatever on dogs could be fatal for humans, especially in operations on the stomach or cranium."

Consequently any success which students might have in operating on dogs would lead them to false conclusions which would prove fatal to human patients."

Crisis In Defense

SOMETHING VERY LIKE A CRISIS evidently has arisen in the defense plans of the North Atlantic alliance. These plans were laid out by General Eisenhower and ratified by the allies. Now it appears that they cannot be carried through without a sharp reduction in the living standards of Britain and the western European nations. There will be less butter if there are to be more guns.

That, of course, is the nubbin of the immediate problem facing the Churchill government—it cannot complete the rearmament program undertaken by the Attlee government without reducing the living standards of Britain and probably without reducing those social services which Britain is unwilling to abandon. And the danger of all this, as Mr. Churchill and other European statesmen see it, is that if the European peoples are compelled to make heavy sacrifices they will insist on reducing their rearmament plans. The whole project of North Atlantic defense is caught in a familiar vicious circle.

It seems pretty clear that the British rearmament program simply cannot go ahead on the present scale lacking further American aid. The huge diversion of goods, machinery and manpower into armament is proving too great a strain on the national economy.

Britain's position would be grave enough today without rearmament. With rearmament it is becoming impossible. France and the other continental nations are a long way behind Britain in their rearmament plans and have yet to feel the pinch of them. They will feel it soon and their governments wonder whether they can survive the protests of the people against harder times. By going too far too quickly, and expecting too much, the United States could undermine instead of strengthening Europe's defense.

Hence General Eisenhower's hurried visit to Washington a few days ago, undoubtedly to discuss this developing crisis with President Truman. Hence Mr. Churchill's intended appeal to the United States for economic aid. Hence, the obviously inspired story from Washington that General Eisenhower is revising his plans to develop quickly a relatively small European defense force and to stretch over a longer period the creation of a force sufficient to defend western Europe from a mass invasion.

The Conservative Split

THE NEW SOCIAL CREDIT MOVEMENT in British Columbia is impractical in theory but may be highly practical in politics.

Social Credit began in England as a protest against the great depression. It was wrapped up in a glittering new text book by Major Douglas but in principle was as old as money. For all its trimmings, its A plus B theorem and the rest, it was an attempt to increase the amount of money in circulation to match the supply of goods. It was a recipe for inflation at a time of violent deflation.

A great deal could be said for inflation at that time. In the more competent hands of the late Lord Keynes inflation in fact became the policy of all the world's governments. The present trouble arose when a moderate prescription for inflation became almost a lethal dose. But at the very moment when there must be deflation or disaster Social Credit again appears in British Columbia with more of the old remedy.

However, no one is serious these days about Social Credit. The only Social Credit government in the world, the government of Alberta, has long since abandoned Social Credit and provided excellent administration on conservative lines. When Social Credit began under Mr. Abernethy (who admittedly did not understand it) one of Canada's ablest economists, the late Peter McQueen, remarked that the Alberta government was "searching in a dark room for a black cat which wasn't there. Premier Manning has ceased to look for the cat."

Social Credit, minus its original theory, is a political force in Alberta and could be a minor force here for a very obvious local reason. It represents a revolt in the Conservative party against the leadership of Mr. Anscomb.

The fanatics of Social Credit, who cling to the old doctrine, may not regard their movement in this light. If there are any practical politicians in the movement they know that their only hope is to attract the dissident Conservatives.

Already they have attracted some of the small fry. Mr. Bennett, the Conservative rebel, probably would lead the Social Credit movement if he were given the chance. Here in Victoria, apparently, some lifelong Conservatives are about to accept, if not the doctrine of Social Credit, the only available method of protesting against the present management of their own party.

About a year ago the Conservative party re-elected Mr. Anscomb as its leader. Anyone present at the convention could see that this decision was made reluctantly and against the opposition of a strong group which could offer no alternative but Mr. Bennett who was not acceptable.

At that time it was said here that under Mr. Anscomb the Conservative party could not hope to win power in British Columbia, and that the Conservatives were well aware of that fact.

Without questioning for a moment the personal honor of Mr. Anscomb, one of the most honest men in our political life, we suggested that British Columbia would never elect to office a party led by a man whose business is selling liquor to the new government of which he is a member, contrary to all the conventions of the parliamentary system, and whose business is protected from competition by strict government policy.

There is no reason to suppose that that opinion. The attempt to form a Social Credit party, based on the split in the Conservative party, whether the effort succeeds or not, confirms the obvious pessimism of the last Conservative convention. It knew what it was doing but could think of nothing else to do. The split, whether it took the form of Social Credit or something else, became inevitable with Mr. Anscomb's reappointment. Now it is coming to the surface.

With Or Without A Referendum

BECAUSE OF LEGAL TECHNICALITIES, Victoria may not hold a referendum at the December elections on the question of amending the margarine act. In other words the city, which cannot take legal steps to change the act, will probably forego this means of judging how big a majority of its citizens wants the butter substitute colored at the factory in the process of manufacture.

Lacking this expression of opinion, no statistics will be available locally to show how overwhelmingly the public endorses coloring. Conversely, those opposed to such action will lack facts to support their case. Under these circumstances the Gallup Poll of last January will have to suffice, and it does not particularize on the coloring question. According to that survey, 71 per cent of the people of Canada want margarine. Only 22 per cent are opposed to it.

The housewife wants yellow margarine. If she didn't she would not mix the coloring into the product in her own kitchen. Were coloring to be added in the factory, machine mixing would save time and expense.

Packaging color buds or wafers is one of the uneconomic consequences of present legislation. But it is less important to the consumer than another injustice imposed by present laws. Margarine is taxed in two ways, first through the imposition of customs duties on any oil ingredients which are imported into the country and secondly by the 10 per cent sales tax on every pound of margarine sold over the counter.

The latter feature runs contrary to the general governmental principle of taxation, which usually seeks to spare the poor citizen the additional burden of an impost on essential food.

Victorians may have no opportunity to express their views on the question in a civic referendum next month. Without such an expression, however, it should be clear to federal authorities that their taxation of margarine is discriminatory. What justification can they find for a law which hurts those who cannot afford butter, but must have a substitute in order to maintain health? Surely amendment of the existing legislation is long overdue. The province should lift its coloring ban; the federal government should lift its sales tax on the commodity.

LOOSE ENDS

Shed No Tears

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

ADMITTING that he probably was heartless and old-fashioned, my friend, Mr. Horace Snifkin, observed that he could not find any tears to shed over Mr. Joseph Louis, the pugilist. This gentleman was recently pictured in "Life" magazine as a prize ring after being expunged by another gentleman named Mr. Rocky Marciano, but this spectacle of defeat did not move Mr. Snifkin in the least.

Mr. Louis was presented by "Life" and other publications as a human tragedy, as a hero at the sunset of a glorious career, as a dying gladiator at the end of the road. Mr. Snifkin confessed that he saw no tragedy, no heroism and no reason for tears. Let "Life" weep over the dying gladiator, who seems to be in excellent health and is only 37 years old, Mr. Snifkin's eyes are dry.

FOR OF WHAT, asked Mr. Snifkin, did Mr. Louis' career consist? It consisted of knocking down other gentlemen with a violence which the law will not tolerate outside of the prize ring. It consisted of exploiting that instinct of savagery which always lies under the thin surface of civilization and which, if finally released, will destroy civilization altogether. It consisted of making money out of the very thing which man must subdue in himself, and in his society or perish.

Mr. Louis is probably a very fine young man with a high sense of honor and a kindly heart. Now that he has ceased his public life his true character will come out in his private life. He is not dying. He is being re-born.

UNFORTUNATELY, Mr. Snifkin admitted this glass tinkling with new cubes of ice, other gentlemen are replacing Mr. Louis in the profession of violence. Mr. Marciano doubtless will continue to practice assault and battery, which is permitted by the law, so long as people pay to see it, but forbidden if the act is committed without compensation just for fun. And after Mr. Marciano has been knocked down for the last time some other practitioner will arise and will be rewarded with a fortune larger than any man can hope to make by building up.

THE PUBLIC, Mr. Snifkin went on, has always loved violence but in modern times has tried to repress and control its old passions. The disturbing thing is not that the violence of Mr. Louis and others is applauded and paid for but that the old instinct for violence of all sorts seems to be increasing again after centuries spent in trying to subdue it. For all our talk of world peace and disarmament, Mr. Snifkin feared, we are becoming more violent and bloodthirsty than our grandfathers.

AS AN EXHIBIT in this case Mr. Snifkin produced another picture from "Life" showing a young gentleman being congratulated by his colleagues on a famous football team for "disabling" an opponent. This gentleman was not congratulated for a feat of sport. He was commended for a feat of violence. He was a hero because he had knocked out another hero—and not in the prize ring where violence is the whole purpose of the business but on the football field where it is forbidden by the rules. He was a hero for breaking the rules and the body of another gentleman.

Man, said Mr. Snifkin, is a curious creature, capable of anything, good or bad. And the worse he is, the more he tries to look good. Hence it is that men legally practicing violence for a living, whether in the prize ring, the football stadium or even illegally in the open occupation of crime must somehow establish a legend of virtue, must create an aura of heroism about themselves. This legend is so successful that when one of the practitioners is finally expunged the tears for his downfall are shed amid the cheers for his successor in violence.

WHEN AN American gangster is murdered, after murdering all his friends, he is buried with expensive ceremony, his sins are forgotten and he becomes a public myth. A Capone or a Dillinger may be outlawed or executed but as the myth grows, as the facts fade, he grows into something like a hero. In only one side of its mind the public condems him. We always have a sneaking sort of esteem for any violent man if he can get away with it because, in fact, we are only a few years out of the cave and our veneer is still very thin. The real question, said Mr. Snifkin, is whether it is getting thinner or thicker. Mr. Snifkin inclined to the view that it was getting thinner after all our recent experience with violence on a world-wide scale. We pay an inward cost for war without realizing it.

ALL PROFESSIONS, the most peaceful and the most violent, are constantly at work on their myth to bolster up their self-esteem. Every trade, from the mediaeval guilds onwards, must impress its importance on the public, but chiefly on itself. The newspaperman becomes a journalist (whatever that may be). The undertaker, a useful public servant, is not satisfied until he is accepted as a mortician. The hairdresser is a beautician.

Presently, no doubt, the public hangman will be organized in a College of Law Enforcement and Final Remedy with examinations, certificates, degrees and annual conventions to discuss technical problems and celebrate the heroes of the profession.

But, said Mr. Snifkin, do not weep for the fallen gladiators. Weep for the human species, so new, so violent and so pathetically destructible.

Balance Of Power

Ottawa Citizen

THE West must tread warily, lest it be tempted to use its increasing military and economic power for offensive purposes, to a degree that would make co-existence impossible and a collision almost inevitable. Diplomacy must rest in strength but its aim should be to restore the balance of power in the world, not to demand unconditional surrender from the Russians. A major purpose of building up armed strength should be to use it to enforce freely negotiated agreements, not to employ it to enforce agreement when there is none. In other words, peace cannot be assured merely by building up force.

SCHOOLS QUESTION

Sometimes it seems as if both sides of a question are not aired equally. Speaking as a Protestant and a taxpayer, I would like to express my views and review a few facts re the current question of Catholic education.

Catholic schools are built, maintained and staffed without government aid.

Parents whose children attend these schools pay school tax supporting public schools.

Also, the private school buildings are taxed, and about 50 per cent of these taxes are spent on public schools. Transportation, medical and dental benefits are denied Catholic school children, despite the fact that the school curriculum must conform to B.C. educational requirements.

So it seems to me that having Catholic, or any private schools, in the province is "pure gravy" to the department of education—but it also seems definitely unjust not to contribute to their support.

ANOTHER ADVOCATE OF "FAIR PLAY."

HUNTING RIGHTS

I read with some astonishment a newspaper article stating that—in all probability hunting would be banned in Central Saanich in the future.

It would appear that complaints have been made by some farmers of hunters doing damage to their crops, etc. But surely it is not only in Central Saanich that these atrocities occur by the so-called hunters. What of the shooting of the cow in Happy Valley; the killing of a plasterer in the Cowichan district and numerous other accidents which have occurred in various districts?

It would appear from the press report that Central Saanich officials are being very high-handed in passing by-laws to still just certain farmers. It would seem to me that this is not the proper way of handling the situation. Surely the hunters could be educated to act properly.

Now as the regulations stand on payment of a fee a license is granted whether or not the applicant knows how to handle a gun. It should be incumbent upon all applicants to read the game regulations and by-laws and to know how to handle firearms.

On the other hand if hunting is banned what about the crops destroyed by pheasants and ducks? Or is it that these certain farmers, who control either by ownership or renting of land a great part of the hunting land in Central Saanich, will be able to secure permits to kill the offenders when their crops are destroyed—thus they will ban the obnoxious hunter (and I'll grant there are a few) and reap the benefit of the hunting which will be banned to others.

ENDLY FAMILIAR?

In a recent issue of the Daily Times we read an article by "Old Vic" in which he refers to our beloved Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh as "Liz and Phil."

How utterly disgusting to say the least. To use these names shows utter lack of respect and love to our Princess and is certainly no example to teach our children to use such nicknames.

I might also say that Penny Saver in one of her articles just before the Royal visit used the same horrible names when speaking of H.R.H. Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

What are these people, Old Vic and Penny Saver, lacking in? I should say they are very ignorant people and have a great deal to learn.

MRS. EMMA J. BARNES.

RETALIATION

Your correspondent Mr. Nation writes "nothing can be done regarding our children's disappointment."

There is something that can be done. Your many readers, who bitterly resent the ignoring of our children left standing in the pouring rain while council members and their wives monopolized our Royal visitors, simply do not vote for these people at the coming election.

Furthermore, any person who was a member of the council when the arena was planned and built should never be re-elected.

They told us we would have a fine arena for $150,000—they saddled us with $1,000,000.

Did not Mr. Olson offer to build an arena if the City Council would donate the land and did not the council turn down his offer?

If people bungle their jobs we should not re-elect them.

PUBLIC VOTE

I have, perhaps, vague and misguided views of what democracy is, but when I see the dire, but unspecified consequences that may befall our city fathers if they are rash enough to risk a referendum on coloring margarine, I begin to wonder whether I am in a dictatorship or a democracy.

My own idea of democracy would be that every important subject should be voted on, on its own merits, by a people who were educated enough and interested enough to vote.

Tension On The Nile

By STEWART ALSOP from Cairo

CALM reigns now in Cairo. The brown wrapping paper which the street mobs, in a childish gesture of defiance, have wrapped around all signs in English, is coming loose already, and flapping idly in the wind. In the streets, the crowds go sullenly about their business.

Yet it is an oppressive sort of calm. A bejeweled Egyptian lady in the fashionable Gezira Sporting Club (where Egyptian ladies were formerly not allowed) remarks derisively: "I suppose you will be writing that the streets of Cairo are running in blood?" The Gezira Sporting Club is very comfortable, and there is no blood in the streets. But there is no certain nervousness in her tone.

For, unless the best informed men here are wrong, it is quite possible that there will be blood in the streets, quite soon now. This is, in fact, the only real reason why the British garrison in the Canal Zone is being very heavily reinforced. Hardly more than a corporal's guard of British troops could hold the Canal Zone against anything the Egyptians have. Yet no one discounts the possibility that the Egyptian government may utterly lose control over the street mobs.

If this happens, the mobs will take over, killing and looting with the wolfish ferocity of which Egyptian mobs are capable. Against this possibility, plans have already been drawn up for moving the British Army into Cairo and Alexandria within a matter of hours. This is the real nightmare here—uncontrolled mass violence, followed by a British occupation of all Egypt, with unimaginable consequences throughout the whole Middle East.

"Oh, yes, it's coming," remarks one experienced diplomat here. "No one can say when, or what will start it, but it's coming all right. It will be very ugly indeed when the mobs take over." Another Westerner, who has spent his life here, disagrees. There will be a lot of noise, he says, but nothing very much will happen.

No one, of course, really knows. But it is true that the mob scenes here some days ago looked like a rehearsal for something else. Not that there was much real violence. Very few people were hurt.

VOLATILE STUFF

For the moment, local hatred is directed mainly against the British. And there should be no mistake about it—as of today, most Egyptians hate the very guts of the British. Yet hatred is volatile stuff, and it is not at all difficult to imagine a situation in which this hatred could be turned in another direction—in, against the tiny minority of immensely wealthy, immensely irresponsible Pashas who sit on the top of the rotten and decaying Egyptian social system.

This is why the Egyptian government, owned body and soul by the Pashas, has used its whole authority to suppress further mob violence, under threat of ruthless retaliation. But how long will the government of Prime Minister Nahas Pasha be able to maintain its authority?

The Nahas government bought itself a new lease on life, just as King Farouk was about to dismiss it, by defying the British.

There should be no mistake about this either—the abrogation of the treaty with the hated British was a deeply and genuinely popular move. Farouk could stem to oppose it only at the risk of his crown and his life. But the Nahas government has promised the mobs to get rid of the British, and there is no way the government can make good its promise. As this knowledge seeps down into the cafes and the bars, the shadowy authority of the government may disintegrate.

Yet there is simply no action the government can take, aside from turning loose the mobs. And there is nothing the Pashas fear more, and with good reason.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"THAT woman," said the Elevator Man, "who nearly put a stick of dynamite in her stove the other day just missed a nasty surprise. It seems the stick was mixed up with the coal she was using. The innocent-looking shoveled packed quite a wallop, but very luckily she saw the explosion in time. People aren't always so fortunate. Often they don't know what happened until they hear the big bang—and then they don't know what happened. Things like that are especially tough in a home. You can expect people to get into trouble around a factory or a foundry. But a home is a place to be brought up, not blown up. Mind your step!

"It's easy," said the Elevator Man, "to draw a parallel to that. The same wolf-in-sheep's-clothing type of thing threatens us all the time. Some innocent little word we drop, some unplanned little act as harmless-looking as a shovelful of coal, may contain enough power to blow us sky-high. Dropped in the wrong ear, or done in the wrong place, it's as dangerous as dynamite in a cook-stove. And it's so hard to tell sometimes. Who'd have thought Jones would get so mad when you remarked that bulb-growers are a stupid lot? How were you to know that he had a garden full of bulbs? The same remark had brought enthusiastic response from a rose gardener down the street. And how were you to know, when you told a woman about a particularly ugly child you'd just seen, that she was its mother? Yes, there's dynamite in many a calm scintilla. The flames of wrath get some unexpected stoking. Lower main!

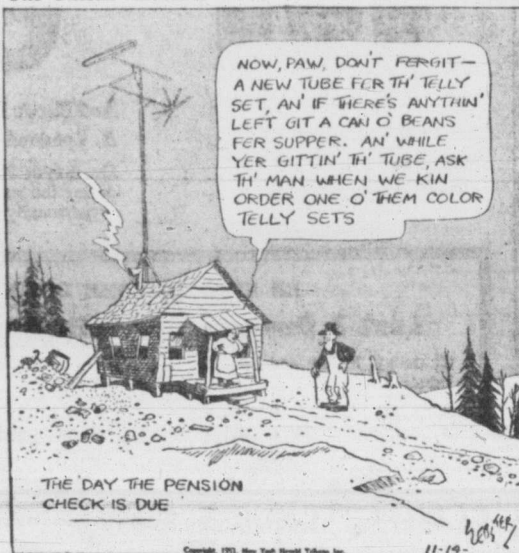

"Speaking," said the Elevator Man, "of hidden dangers, reminds me of that story. A lecturer was warning against the use of a certain food. 'We all eat it at some time or another,' he declared. 'Yet it's the worst thing in the world for us. What is it? What is it?' He pointed a dramatic finger at a little fellow in the back row, and the little fellow spoke up: 'Wedding cake!'

DEFEAT

"None that trust in him shall be desolate." Ps. 34:22.

O Lord, it's hard to understand . . . Why you vetoed the way I planned . . . And let me lose this big decision . . . I'd set my heart and gained my vision . . . To win and had the victory claimed . . . But I am beaten, licked and shamed . . . However, Lord, I've always found . . . Your judgment in the end is sound . . . So let me take my loss and see . . . That "Thy will" is the best for me.

Canadian-Born Opera Star Hailed 'Greatest'

NEW YORK, Nov. 14, (CP)—Canadian-born George London, who made his debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company in Aida Tuesday night, is hailed today as one of "the greatest singing actors" opera-goers here have ever known.

The high praise for the Montreal-born baritone comes from Virgil Thomson, music critic of the New York Herald-Tribune, after the performance opening the Met's 1951 season.

Thomson says of London, who sang the role of Amonasro in the revamped version of Verdi's grandest of grand operas:

"George London is already a great baritone star in the grand manner. Beauty of voice, a perfection of musical style and a stage power—both by personal presence and by dramatic skill—of the very first order are his. Last night he took his place among the greatest singing actors we have any of us known or remembered, and he did it without seeming effort or im-

Protest On House Left Unfinished

Saanich municipal clerk John B. Tribe will ascertain what authority the municipality has to make a man finish building a house.

Action was taken following a protest from a delegation of Cadillac Ave. residents at Tuesday's council meeting. Spokesman D. Robertson and others said the house, in the 200 block, had been in an unfinished state for three years.

changes made under Bing in staging Aida. Taubman noted the influx of young faces and new faces in the first-night audience. Missing were many of the old guard who traditionally contributed to the season's start.

Thomson says the newly-decorated and newly-clothed Aida gave the 67th season opener a "spectacle and a musical performance of unusual distinction."

The debuts of London and Elena

Nikolaiddi, who sang Amneris, were handsome. Among the many dinner parties before the opera was one given by Senator Charles B. Howard of Sherbrooke, Que.

Troop Brews Own Stews For Father-Son Repast

By FREEMAN KING
Executive Commissioner
Greater Victoria Boy Scouts

The Parkdale Troop, under the leadership of Eric Fredin, held a father and son "stew feed" last week. Food was cooked by the boys and from all accounts a good time was had by all. The evening was spent in games.

The Marigold Cub Pack held a "going up ceremony" when eight boys from the pack went to "the Land of Adventure." The "do" was under the leadership of Scouter John Phillips. This puts the Marigold Troop back on the map again. Good show, Marigold!

At the last meeting of the Lions own group committee the charter was presented by the district commissioner, E. A. Estlin, Charlie Savage, president of the Lions Club, congratulated the group on its formation. This group will hold a paper drive Saturday to raise funds to carry on activities.

BRING HOME FLOAT

The Lions own Rover crew spent the weekend at Camp Barnard and moved the boat-house and bathing float back to its place. It had gone adrift and was at the far end of the lake. This was quite an undertaking for the boys.

The James Bay Troop under Scouter Jack Tate, went to Salt Spring Island over the weekend on a camping trip, really putting the "out" in scouting.

The Oak Bay B Troop, the Cougars, were host to a troop from Vancouver, the 18th Skookums, with Scouter Jack Muir taking care of the activities.

The visitors were billeted with the Oak Bay boys. A big feed was held on Saturday evening and on Sunday all attended church parade in the morning and a memorial service at the War Memorial in the afternoon. There was sightseeing around our town as well. Scouter Bill Cage was in charge of the Vancouver boys.

NEW COURSE

On Thursday there will be a course for group committee men at Scout Headquarters, 1034 Johnson Street, at 8. It will be open to all members of group committees.

There are signs in the district that some of the boys are really trying for the first-class badge. We have had a number go for their "adventure hike." This is the real thing in scouting, boys. Congratulations to you.

Lieut. Grey said the Australians, British and Americans have good traveling shows, but that the Canucks would like to see something from the home-front entertainment field.

Grid Gossip

By DENNY BOYD

Royal Roads lose 6-5 to Merlomas in exhibition Canadian football game.

Not in itself an astounding piece of news, except for the fact it was the first time that a grid team from the big stone castle on the Lagoon had lost a game.

However, that game may signal a new era in local football; it may take the game away from the sandlot where it has been, to these many years, and put on the same basis on which it exists across the rest of the Dominion.

The game was a little more than an exhibition filling an open Saturday afternoon; it was a test of relative strength to see if a team from Victoria could stand up to a team from Vancouver's Junior Big Four. The idea being that a B.C. league would be formed with three or four teams from Vancouver, one from Penticton and as many as Victoria can muster next season.

Following Saturday's game, Ned Wigginton, president of the British Columbia Canadian Football Union said, "Say, that's a fine ball club; we could certainly use them in our league next year."

The Big Four would love to have the cadets commute to and from Vancouver to play as a member team of the Vancouver league. But this does not comply with the wishes of the local executive.

The way the Victoria league sees it, the only way to operate the B.C. union is for the Mainland and Island to play off their respective leagues independently of the other with the winners of each local meeting for the B.C. championship. That way Victoria will have a crack at the Canadian junior title. You can take the word of Victoria league prexy Mike Rynoshki who said, "We will not break up our league to help out Vancouver."

The pending tussle between "big blues" from Royal Roads and the Gobblins of Oak Bay promises to be an earth-shattering collision. From their past record, the cadets will be favored to lift the two-game series but the last man to agree with this will be Royal Roads coach Ivan Edwards. Always the pessimist, the hard-driving cadet mentor has a world of respect for Gobblin's bruising line.

On the cheerful side was the sensational plunging of Chick Ferguson who battered the Lomas' line almost into submission. Ferguson could well be the spark that will drive Roads onto a second city crown. By the same token, the Gobblins are raving about the running of a stocky backfielder named Red White. Working most of the season as a blocker and safety man, White came in to his own Sunday when he was switched to fullback.

Plan Sweeping Reforms For Collegiate Football

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—American Colleges, alarmed lest football be caught in the swirling sports scandal, are swinging into action to put intercollegiate sport on a sane basis.

A.A.U. TO MEET THURSDAY

VANCOUVER, Nov. 14 (CP)—The 58th annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada opens here Thursday.

High on the agenda for the country's top brass in amateur sports is expected to be the 1952 Olympic Games and the 1954 British Empire Games.

Vancouver will take the fore Saturday, when Stan Smith of the British Empire Games committee reports on plans for the 1954 event.

Most of the Dominion and many of the provincial executives are expected to attend.

Heaney's Take Table Tennis Leadership

Heaney's Cartage took a two-point lead in the Victoria Table Tennis Association "A" division Tuesday night by downing Straith Clothing 31-19. Pic 'n' Pac moved into second place when they defeated Robinson's Grocery 20-10.

Unknown Boxer Scores Upset Over Sands

LONDON, Nov. 14 (AP)—Yolande Pompee, comparatively unknown Trinidad boxer, Tuesday night stopped Dave Sands, Australian holder of the British Empire middleweight crown, in 2:15 of the seventh round of an amazing upset in Harringway Arena. The non-title bout was fought for 10 rounds. Each weighed 165 pounds.

Sands, who also holds his country's middleweight, light heavyweight and heavyweight crowns, was leading until he suffered a cut over his left eye in the sixth round.

The sight of Sands' gash spurred Pompee on and he tore after the favorite in the seventh. The Trinidad battler pinned Sands to the ropes with a vicious barrage and blood streamed from the eye cut. After Pompee hammered the Australian again for fully 30 seconds, Referee C. Davidson halted the one-sided fray and raised the underdog's hand in triumph.

Pompee floored Sands for a count of eight with a left to the jaw in the fifth round for the only knockdown of the fight. It was the eighth defeat in 97 pro fights for Sands who is ranked as one of the top middleweights in the world. Pompee, who claims to be unbeaten, said it was his 23rd victory.

JOE NOT TOO WORRIED OVER INCOME TAX DEBT

TOKYO, Nov. 14 (AP)—Joe Louis said today his income tax situation is "just about cleaned up."

But he added that he has no plans to retire. The former world heavyweight champion arrived by plane for a series of boxing exhibitions in major Japanese cities.

A portion of the gate receipts will go to charity. The Brown Bomber will meet volunteer opponents in the exhibitions. Four U.S. navy men have been picked.

Several hundred fans greeted the Louis party at Haneda Airport. He towered over the Japanese who pressed eagerly forward.

A reporter asked him if he was going to keep on fighting just to pay off back income taxes.

"Not at all," said Joe. "It's just about cleaned up."

About his future plans, Louis said, "I'll make up my mind about those things when I get through with these exhibitions here in Japan."

PRAIRIE ROUND-UP

Alberta's Financial Position Wins Praise

CALGARY, Nov. 14 (CP).—Premier Manning said Tuesday night that if the development of natural resources continues at the present accelerated rate "it is not beyond the realm of possibility" that Alberta will not only be the only debt-free province but the only tax-free province.

At a dinner meeting of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts, the premier said that in the last 3½ years revenue from Alberta oil passed the $110,000,000 mark.

Should this accelerated revenue continue, the possibility of Alberta being tax and debt-free "is not too visionary," he said.

If the forecasts made by some oil experts that Alberta is on the fringe of its development were true, "there is a good possibility and probability of reaching that goal."

Horses Won't Help

SASKATOON, Nov. 14 (CP).—Two officials of the University of Saskatchewan's agricultural engineering department said Tuesday that bringing horses back to the prairies would not help the farmers get their grain harvested in time.

"They disagreed with a statement by Agricultural Minister Gardiner that western farmers would have to change their seeding and harvesting methods to avoid having their crops covered with snow in the fall."

For the last two years early frost and snow has interrupted western harvesting, leaving millions of bushels under snow through the winter. Premier T. C. Douglas has estimated that grain worth $200,000,000 is lying under snow in Saskatchewan alone. Last year the loss to Saskatchewan farmers had been $250,000,000.

Wins Oats Prize

SANGUDO, Alta., Nov. 14 (CP).—Matthew B. Schnurer, who won the oats championship at the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto, said today that much of the credit for the win goes to his daughter Elizabeth and members of the Junior Grain Club in this district 65 miles northwest of Edmonton.

"They've worked hard on it every year," he said. "And they'll try again next year. Their success will depend on the weather."

The Schnurer farm is three miles south of Sangudo and has been operated by the family since 1930. Mr. Schnurer won the reserve championship in oats at the Royal Winter Fair last year and placed fourth in the Chicago Exposition.

Mock Battle Ends

SHILO, Man., Nov. 14 (CP).—Operation Assiniboine, a realistic exercise staged by Canada's three armed forces, wound up successfully Tuesday.

The exercise was attended by 51 students from the Canadian Army Staff College at Kingston, Ont., many of them from foreign countries. Most were impressed more by the similarity between the Canadian army and their own than by differences.

But it was a different matter

when it came to the Dominion itself.

Capt. R. G. Chaigneau of the French army said he enjoyed living in Canada "very much, except for the Sundays—so dull."

Lt.-Col. S. M. Ismail of the Pakistan army brought his wife and two sons when he moved to Canada for the course. In Pakistan he employed six servants but in Canada his wife managed well with modern household gadgets and no servants and had "very little to do."

For some reason he didn't believe his wife would agree with him.

Kiwianians Name Officers For 1952

Local Kiwanians elected officers for the coming year at their weekly meeting Tuesday at the Empress Hotel.

New vice-presidents are J. H. Ford and A. R. Roberts.

Election by acclamation of the new president, Edward Malley, was announced last week. Also returned to office by acclamation was the secretary-treasurer, P. Glenn Hope.

Three directors elected for two-year terms were: Lewis McLean, Sam Hill and M. V. Chestnut; directors for one-year terms: Viv Spence, J. C. Stinson and Martin Cave.

Battle Of Benches Undecided

Park benches on downtown streets?

That is the question city council's public works committee is taking to City Solicitor Arthur Patton.

The move was decided upon at a meeting Tuesday.

The question arose from the placing of park-type benches by Woodward's department store outside its Douglas-Courtney premises.

City Engineer Cyril Jones said the benches must go. He was ignored. The question was brought before public works.

Let the benches stay if the store paints out its name on them, one committee member suggested.

But what if a pedestrian bumps one, injures himself, and sues the city, another asked.

Let the solicitor decide, it was agreed.

SAANICH TO VOTE ON SAFETY ISSUE

Sidewalks And Playgrounds Would Cost 4.5 Mill Boost Over Four-Year Period

Saanich ratepayers will vote in December on referendums for sidewalks adjacent to schools and an organized program of playground improvement.

The municipal council Tuesday night agreed to seek the voters' opinion on expenditure of one mill per year over a period of four years to lay sidewalks adjacent to schools, and one-half mill for playgrounds.

Councillor L. H. Passmore introduced the sidewalk issue, claiming that for $52,000 a total of 59,400 feet of sidewalk could be laid, and more repaired, to give school children safer approaches to schools.

After discussion it was decided to lay concrete sidewalks where feasible, and asphalt at other locations.

Drainage, progress of the sewer system, final grades of adjacent roads, and school populations will be considered in the project.

The playground referendum proposed by Councillor Grace Shaw passed unanimously.

Speaking of a complaint of inadequate fire protection in the Marigold district, Reeve Joseph W. Casey stated two-inch water mains serve the area, and that since they are being replaced throughout Saanich on a basis of need, Marigold would have to wait its turn for larger mains.

L. Vivien, 1438 Wendy Drive, will be told by council that servicing of cars at his home is an offense, and subject of complaint by neighbors. Both police and fire departments reported on inspections of the premises.

Letters from J. Roger Elgood, 3352 Whittier, and Helen J. Tappett, 3342 Whittier, stating a majority of residents of the area oppose erection of a scout hall at Whittier and Tennyson Avenues, will be forwarded to the Zoning Board.

"I don't know how the board bases its judgments," Councillor Passmore remarked.

Council prepared for the municipal elections by naming John B. Tribe, municipal clerk, as returning officer, and the Municipal Hall as the place for nominations. Polling stations and returning officers will be the same as last year.

Final reading was given the oil burner permit and inspection by-law.

Councillor Shaw was named representative to a meeting Nov. 27 of the Capital Regional Planning Board.

Reeve Casey advised a "hands off" policy regarding a Department of National Defense move to construct a sewer line from the Gordon Head army camp to Bowker Creek.

"We should report to the camp that since it will cross private property we have no jurisdiction," he said. "Let them contact the owners."

Henry Blakeney, superintendent of works, was authorized to deal with a complaint of poor drainage on Carey Road, lodged by Louis Fletcher.

Vancouver Kills Margarine Vote

VANCOUVER, Nov. 14 (CP).—A bid by Ald. Archie Proctor to have a plebiscite on the coloring of margarine at civic elections Dec. 12 was turned down Tuesday by city council's social service committee.

The bid was opposed principally by Ald. R. K. Gervin, who termed it "none of our business and beyond our power to change."

'WE HAVE NO CONTROL'

Saanich Won't Muddle In Margarine Coloring

Councillor H. K. "Pat" Bate Tuesday night failed in an effort to have Saanich needle the government on the coloring of margarine issue.

His proposal at Saanich Council meeting was to place a referendum before the voters in December asking if they would favor the council forming a committee to request the government to color oleomargarine.

Reeve Joseph W. Casey ruled the motion out of order, and was promptly challenged by Councillor L. H. Passmore. Councillor Grace Shaw joined the dissenters, but the tie vote on the ruling was sufficient to uphold the reeve.

The reeve and his supporters disagreed with Councillor Bate on the municipality's part in the issue.

"I agree with you, except that it's something over which we have no control," he said.

Councillor W. C. Kersey said even dairymen favored coloring margarine, but claimed "it's none of our business."

Councillors E. P. Cummins and George Austin both said there was no reason for not coloring margarine, but that it was a provincial problem.

"Well, it was a good try, Pat," Councillor Passmore said when the council vote defeated the move.

Too Crowded In Holland For Them

Happy to be in Canada after overcrowded conditions in Netherlands are the Schurings of 512 Vincent, from left: daughter Joyce, 12; six-year-old Bobby, Mrs.

Schuring, Mr. Schuring and son Bill, 23. Second daughter, Teresa, is here also. (Times Photo)

Dutch Immigrant Family, Happy Here Bringing 2 More Newcomers

By DICK PAUL

British Columbia's largest Dutch immigrant family—the Schurings, at 512 Vincent Avenue—are due for an increase soon.

Mrs. Jacob Schuring, mother of four, said today:

But it won't be from the visit of a stork.

"We are arranging to have two boys come from Holland to be with us before long," Mrs. Schuring smiled. "They will work on my brother-in-law's farm next to us here."

The Schurings—father, mother, two sons and two daughters—arrived here from Holland last December, a few days before Christmas, bewildered after riding across a vast, snowy land.

OWN THEIR HOME

"But now we have settled down," Mrs. Schuring explained. "We own our own home here and the children are getting a good education. Oh, I'm so happy we're here in Canada. We have the feeling of being safe now. We didn't have it before."

Once a tea plantation manager in the Dutch East Indies, the father has had to start out again as a laborer. And their oldest son, Bill, 23, crippled by polio, is a cafe worker laboring from midnight to 8 in the morning.

But the Schuring home is a happy one, resounding with the glee of six-year-old Bobby and Joyce, 12, both slightly incapacitated for the time being.

Dark-haired Bobby is nursing a bite from a dog, and blonde Joyce broke her wrist while at play recently. Their grateful companion is "Peggy," a black dog they inherited from the former owner of their home, who died.

DAUGHTER A BRIDE

"We call her 'Old Potato Bag,' because she's so fat," volunteered Joyce.

The Schuring family "lost" a member just two weeks ago, when their daughter, Teresa, was married to a Canadian youth. The newlyweds are now living at Langford.

Mrs. Schuring, dark-haired and vivacious, explained the family came here from Soest, near Utrecht. Three of their four children had been born on Java, where the Japanese caught them and interned them in the Second World War.

Mrs. Schuring was placed in one prison camp with her children and her husband was put into another camp. They were held for three years, and finally returned to Holland in 1946.

"But we found there was little future in the overcrowded Netherlands for the children. So we came to Canada to make a new life," she said.

SKY FIREWORKS

Meteor Show At Midnight, Experts Say

A meteor "shower" will be visible some time after midnight tonight... but it won't be anything like the last big November meteoric display in 1898, Dominion—Astrophysical Observatory authorities said today.

The meteors, called Leonids after the constellation Leo the Lion, were apparently "bumped out of place" by another planet some half century ago after the last big show.

Then, too, a bright moon and possible clouds will be in the way Wednesday night.

Only "night owls" will see the show, anyway. For at best it won't be good until about 2 in the morning in the eastern part of the sky.

That's when the meteors are on the side of the earth facing them and the earth then runs into them, so to speak.

Seek Formula On Tax Split

Ministers Grapple With Distribution Of Sales Revenues, Municipal Grants

A new formula for distribution of the municipalities' share of the 3-per-cent sales tax is under consideration by the government, Education Minister W. T. Straith said today.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Willfred Pember expects "the bird" from skeptics but "I'm going to report it anyway."

He phoned The Times to say he had watched a hummingbird in his 294 Beaumont Avenue, View Royal, garden early today.

"No, I'm not going to say we escaped the frost in our 'banana belt,'" he said. "There was ice on my fish pond and that is why I thought the appearance of the 'hummer' was unusual."

Russell Lewis, Port Renfrew, reported to police he was robbed of $110 at a downtown hotel early today.

He said someone came into his room and stole the money from his pockets, as well as a 26-ounce bottle of rye whiskey from a dresser drawer.

A rifle bullet that entered the children's bedroom of the home of Joseph Kelly, 1727 Bank Street, during the holiday week-end came through the ceiling from a separate upstairs suite and lodged in the wall of the Kelly's downstairs living quarters. The Times reported incorrectly the ceiling into an upstairs suite.

The rocky milk industry has lost another one of its number. The herd of Archibald Brown, West Saanich Road, will be auctioned off on Thursday.

"Unsoundness of the business as a whole" was given as the reason for Brown going out of business. Brown has been shipping his milk to a city distributor. This is about the sixth producer to sell out in the last two months.

Robert Doble, traffic engineering assistant, said today one-hour parking restriction signs will be erected Thursday on Douglas from Hillside to Bay.

John Charles Adams, about 20, 877 Old Esquimalt Road, pleaded guilty in city police court today to a charge of shop-breaking with intent to commit theft.

He was remanded to Friday. A probation officer's report was asked on accused.

Constables George Buckle and Nap Bouchard found Adams hiding in the shop of T. Wherry, 629 Pandora, on the night of Nov. 9. He had a hunting knife strapped to his belt and a clasp fish-cleaning knife in his pocket.

Robert Jackson, 1765 Hollywood Crescent, was remanded to Dec. 3 on a charge of assaulting Constable Harry Hoshall. He is being represented by George F. Gregory.

City Council's parks committee today gave Parks Administrator W. H. Warren authority to carry out improvements to water services at the Beacon Hill nursery and Ross Bay Cemetery at a cost of $14,500. Funds were provided in the 1951 estimates.

The city pound and S.P.C.A. facilities will be inspected by City Council's parks committee.

Aldermen agreed to the inspection today, before considering further the S.P.C.A.'s proposal for amalgamation of services.

Cabinet Gives Welfare Bonus For Christmas

The provincial government has approved the payment of increased supplementary allowances or "Christmas bonuses" to persons receiving allowances.

The bonus to the head of a family will be $5 instead of $3.20, and for each single person $2 instead of $1.20. Health and Welfare Minister A. D. Turnbull said today.

These are the amounts paid to recipients living in unorganized territory.

"Municipalities who wish to have this additional bonus to those cases responsible to the municipality may do so on the usual 50-20 basis," explained the minister.

This means the province will pay 80 per cent of the bonus and the municipalities will pay 20 per cent. The province, as usual, will pay the full cost of the bonus for those who are the responsibility of the province.

Each mother in receipt of Mothers' Allowance will also receive a $5 bonus.

Straith said officials of the education, municipal and finance departments are grappling with the problem.

"It's an extremely difficult one and I don't know if there is a solution," said the minister.

The municipalities' share of the sales tax is paid on a basis of population, weighted by school population. These payments are based on 1946 population figures. They total about $9,000,000 a year on present revenues.

Several municipal leaders claim this is inequitable. It permits some areas to pay the entire school costs out of sales tax distribution while others have to impose land taxation as well.

PRAIRIE EXPERT HERE

Straith discussed the problem of educational costs on the municipal level, Tuesday, with W. E. Hobbs, Winnipeg municipal taxation expert.

Hobbs has been engaged by the Union of B.C. Municipalities to direct an intensive search by that organization for a solution to the problem of school costs to municipalities.

Results of this year's census are bound to bring about a re-allocation of provincial grants to the municipalities. They show the changing weight of population between districts—the main basis for distribution.

BASED ON 1941 CENSUS

This applies particularly to motor-vehicle receipts—totaling $1,975,000 for municipalities. At present these are based on the 1941 census.

Some municipalities will get more, others less, as a result of the new census.

In reviewing the entire problem of municipal grants one suggestion is that all manner of grants—sales tax, motor receipts and other items—be pooled and a completely new formula adopted for distributing them to local governments.

OPPOSE WARREN

Plant, Not Chop Say Aldermen

City Council's parks committee today threw the axe for a spade.

After a full afternoon's on-the-spot investigation, Ald. William Pinfold, chairman, and Ald. Robert Macmillan vetoed a plan of parks superintendent Herb Warren to remove some trees on several city boulevards.

The committee favored the parks administrator's plan for planting 354 trees on treeless boulevards.

"There are many streets in the city with no trees," said Ald. Pinfold. "We should be concerned with getting trees planted, rather than removing trees which might have another 25 years' life."

FOR NEW GROWTH

Warren had presented a program of thinning and removal of old trees in order to let younger new trees grow.

"Thinning out and ultimate removal of old trees was the unanimous policy of the parks committee for the past 15 years," said Warren. "That is definite. You propose to reverse the policy."

Said Ald. Pinfold: "I think your program is equally as drastic as you think ours is. The trees aren't all going at once, and we should have the beauty of those trees for the 10 or 25 or perhaps 40 years they may still stand."

"Scientifically, Mr. Warren might be right, but as far as Ald. Macmillan and I can see, we'd rather have the beauty of those trees there as long as they are living."

The city pound and S.P.C.A. facilities will be inspected by City Council's parks committee.

Aldermen agreed to the inspection today, before considering further the S.P.C.A.'s proposal for amalgamation of services.

MANY FINGERS IN COURT PIE

Deaf-Mutes In Silent Argument

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The axiom "action speaks louder than words" was literally expounded in Supreme Court here today in what is perhaps the oddest trial ever heard in Victoria.

The deaf-mutes in a civil suit disputed by actions and hand signs ownership of property on the Old West Road near the observatory.

The plaintiff, Mrs. P. H. Bobbett, was represented by Joseph McKenna, K.C., while Donald E. C. Anderson acted as counsel for Miss Minnie Bobbett, a sister-in-law, defendant in the civil action.

Court officials described the case as the "most silent trial" ever heard in British Columbia.

The taking of evidence was lengthy, as all questions and answers had to be interpreted in hand sign language. The court at times waited as long as five minutes for an answer to a question.

The lawyer would first ask a question of a principal in the civil suit. The interpreter, attractive Mrs. F. Odynsky, would translate the question into the sign language for the witness who in turn would reply with hands.

Mrs. Odynsky, who has acted as interpreter on two other occasions for deaf-mutes at trials, said "it was her most difficult case."

"It is tiresome," she said. "Both speak in different hand sign languages."

Mrs. Odynsky's hands get wringing wet after a few hours' translation.

For court stenographer Harvey Bamfield "it is the easiest" trial.

He has ever sat on. He has "all the time in the world" to put down the questions and answers, but awfully boring.

Douglas Dorrity, Supreme Court clerk, described the trial after the hearing as "interesting but awfully boring."

The case continues.

Strike-Idle Taverns Clean Up

There is much activity in many local beer parlors even though they are not open for business because of the brewery strike. Operators are taking advantage of the shutdown to redecorate and "smarten up." At Esquimalt's Tudor House, above, employees have put in the last few days washing and scrubbing the chairs which have been empty over two weeks. (Times Photo)

BREWERY STRIKERS HEAR TRUCE HINTS

Despite reports from the mainland of a possible meeting soon between both sides involved in the three-week-old coast brewery strike, employees of Phoenix Brewery in Victoria said today they had received no notification of such a meeting. "They seem not banking on any immediate developments."

"There's no change as far as we're concerned," said Henry Nowotniak, local business agent for brewery workers.

The strike, which involves more than 400 workers and four breweries, resulted when union and management sides were unable to agree upon a wage structure for the forthcoming year.

Workers, through their union, demanded an increase of 35-cents an hour. The companies said the best they could offer was 25 cents.

Oil Hunters Face Delay

Applications for oil exploration permits in the Peace River district, arising out of the oil strike two weeks ago near Fort St. John, will not be ruled on for about one month.

Officials estimate it will take this long before all the applications are studied, checked and the necessary legal requirements completed.

Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney announced today total applications now number 112 since the beginning of the month. They cover 7,476,648 acres.

Eight applications, covering 357,000 acres, were made Tuesday. Seven were in the Peace River and one in the Kootenay district.

Laidlaw Securities Ltd. applied for two permits covering 200,000 acres in the Sahtench and Ketchikan River areas. Crow's Nest Pass Oil and Gas Company applied for a permit to do exploration work on 14,000 acres in the Kootenay.

A water shut-off has been effected at Pacific Petroleum's Allied No. 1 well by squeezing 370 sacks of cement between the seven-inch and 10 1/2-inch casings.

MIRACLE PRESCRIPTION

Yoga, Mental Vitamins Keep His Patients Fit

"I'm 59 and I don't look it and don't feel it."

This declaration came today from thin, wiry Dr. Albert E. Cliffe, the "Miracle Man of Montreal," who is giving a series of talks on mental health here this week.

Spry as a cricket, Dr. Cliffe arose from his chair in his Emory Hotel room, and gave a series of ballet-like kicks.

"See," he asserted. "This is a sample of what you can do by having 'mental vitamins.'"

"Tiredness is mental, not physical. I've had only about 10 hours sleep in the last three nights, but I'm not tired."

Dr. Cliffe, who is speaking each evening through Friday, at St. John's Church, gave a short sketch of his life.

"I was a biochemist by profession. How stomach ulcers most of my life. Finally, I was sent home from a hospital with only a short time to live."

TURNED TO RELIGION

"Not long after that, I decided to turn to religion. Then I learned the secret of life: how to conquer fear. I became well. Today I can eat anything that's put in front of me, haven't had a cold in 10 years and haven't even lost my temper in that time."

Dr. Cliffe discovered the "more abundant life" via a study of Yoga, he revealed.

"The Hindus have it all over us when it comes to knowing how to control the mind," he said.

Dr. Cliffe, who operates a "problem clinic" in Montreal, said his profession has nothing to do with "faith healing."

"I merely help persons to realize themselves by knowing themselves and by throwing off the trials and fears of life," he explained.

Come On Now Dad! Clear Those Fallen Leaves Away

By PENNY SAVER

Oh, the wind! She does blow! A glance at those gaunt, bare trees ought to be a tip for dear old Dad to advance on that precious garden of his and attack the carpet of leaves which fell over the week-end.

I know! It's a back-breaking job—to say the least—but it has to be done.

After all, the battle was kept up all summer during the dry spell, trying to keep it looking green and neat. Why, I bet he even got down on all fours and planted new bulbs to add to those already flourishing. You can't quit now just because a torrent of wet, soggy leaves decided to fall off the trees.

Just to satisfy my own curiosity I noted the prices on a few things that ought to help him during the "clean-up." Heavy drill gardening gloves with elastic cuffs were selling for 50 cents, but probably better for this task are the waterproof neoprene gloves which cost $1.10. Can't complain if you have a pair of these.

As far as I can make out about the only thing that will really whip your yard into shape is the ever faithful bamboo rake. For 50 cents you can be the proud owner of one.

Well, Dad, if you really want to get in the swing of things you may be interested in a station wagon hat. They certainly are popular again this year. You know, they are the ones with a peaked front and fur flaps that can be lowered to protect the ears.

The station wagon hats I saw for $2.10 were quilt-lined. Ski-caps were about the same price and a very good quality. The ever practical and popular visor caps were among the selection and were priced at $1.45.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Facial Exercises Help Keep Your Face Happy

One aging factor which gives women most unhappiness is the "dewlap" or sag at the jawline and resulting folding of skin from mouth to chin.

The structure of your face plays some part in this. You are lucky if you naturally have a lean jaw because some women are constructed more heavily in this spot. However, facial exercise as well as good nourishment and general fine health can be of help. An outgoing, happy attitude also helps avoid or delay this symptom of years. If your mouth droops habitually you will certainly be a victim.

The following exercises will be beneficial. Purse your lips in an exaggerated way. Draw the lips back and up as far as you can, lips separated. Continue with a smooth rhythm.

Another: Lift the right side of your face by lifting the right corner of your mouth upward. Hold while you count to 10 slowly. Relax. This time lift the left corner of your mouth upward. Hold while you count to 10. Continue, alternating right and left. If you have this trouble you might also buy one of the little patters which most cosmeticians have, and pat from under the chin upward along the line of muscle sag. Do not do this too strenuously, but briskly and gently, first on one side and then on the other.

Whenever you rest, lie with your head lower than your hips and legs. Once or twice a day lie for a few minutes with your head hanging over the edge of the bed and feel the blood surge. This daily routine will aid you in the battle for good facial contour.

Many women write telling me of the improvement they have achieved with the faithful use of my facial exercises. If you would like to have them send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 4—Facial Exercises. Address your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Traditional Satin Worn By Doreen May Bousfield

Nylon net over white satin was the choice of Doreen May Bousfield for her marriage to Richard Edwin Morris, Saturday evening, in St. John's Anglican Church. Canon George Biddle read the nuptial service for the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bousfield, 1157 Empress Avenue, and the son of Mrs. D. Reynolds, Mt. Vernon, Wash., and Mr. C. E. Morris, Victoria. Tall standards of white and mauve chrysanthemums decorated the church for the occasion and Miss Helene Turner was soloist during the signing of the register.

The bride was escorted by her father. A lace bodice with seed pearl embroidery, jilly point sleeves and lace penguin provided texture contrast with the full skirt. A veil of French illusion net with border fell from a headress of satin and seed pearls. As her only jewelry she wore a rhinestone necklace and earrings, gift from the groom. The bridal bouquet was of white chrysanthemums and pink carnations. Attendants were Miss Florence Bradley in pale green, and Miss Marjorie Bousfield, sister of the bride, in pastel mauve. They chose identical satin gowns styled

Curb Must Go! Parking? No!

The "problem child" of City Council's public works committee—Blanshard Street and McClure intersection at the new B.C. Power Commission building—isn't back on the straight and narrow yet.

Boys Of 'Y' Hosts At Open House Friday

The boys' department of the Y.M.C.A. is holding open house in the gymnasium Friday.

"Y" members from 9 to 21 years will take part in athletic demonstrations.

Ian Anderson, director of the boys' department, will be in charge of the open house, and Les Newell, volunteer leader of the young men's classes, will lead an 18 to 21 group in gymnastic exercises.

The youngsters will take part in group games and various indoor sports.

Gymnastic demonstrations will be held from 7 to 8:30, and refreshments will be served by members of the boys' work committee.

This was evident at a Tuesday meeting of the committee when council orders for a change in "up-bringing" were received.

Council, at its earlier meeting, frowned on the narrowing of Blanshard hill, beside the Power Commission building, and also moved to save a large cottonwood tree at the McClure-Collinson corner at the foot of the hill the works department had planned on chopping.

The committee pondered at length on both questions.

The majority ruled, finally, that instead of a curb down the centre of Blanshard hill, to give angle parking on half of the street, there will be a six-foot boulevard.

It will be on the west side, eliminating parking plans, and the Power Commission will be invited to plant it with grass or flowers.

Ald. Millard Mooney didn't like this course. He thought there should be no boulevard. "Make downtown streets as wide as possible," he said.

Committee then moved to the foot of the hill to deal with the second order—"Save that cottonwood."

After consultation with City Engineer Cyril Jones it was agreed the only answer was to raise the level of the street so the roots of the giant would not interfere with the pavement.

Engineer Jones made it clear he was not happy with the "drop-the-axe" call of council.

"I'll raise the level of the road all right—I'll do as I've been instructed. But it won't make a satisfactory job. I'll tell you that right now."

$3,000 BAIL FREES BAILLIE

Charged with manslaughter, Carl H. Baillie, 730 Vancouver, was released from the city jail on $3,000 bail Tuesday afternoon.

He has been formally committed for trial in a higher court as a result of a Sooke Road collision July 26 that caused the death of Mrs. Victor Jopp, Luxton.

Regularly Every Friday

"She's my favorite customer—Mary Jones' youngest. Comes in, regular as clockwork, with her mother's grocery order. And am I happy to fill it!"

"Shocked us all when her dad died so suddenly. How would Mary manage with three youngsters to feed? But we needn't have worried. They eat regularly... and well. Jim saw to that."

"Wealthy man? My goodness, no! He just had his job, but he put every cent he could into life insurance. Guess Mary sometimes thought it was too much. She doesn't now!"

"Yes sir... life insurance is the one thing no family man can afford to be without!"

CITY TO SET YULE TREES IN KEY DOWN-TOWN POINTS

City streets are going to be "decked out" again this year for Christmas.

Public Works Committee of City Council on Tuesday authorized the street lighting department to erect decorated trees at key positions.

Newcomers To Saanich Council In Spotlight

Councillor's Request For More Than One Open Meeting Rejected; Says Public Forum Needed

"Old" candidates for Saanich Council will take a back seat to newcomers at the municipal election meeting.

Only one public, council-sponsored meeting will be held, at Mount View High School, with the newcomers having 10 minutes to speak, and others five minutes.

At the council meeting Tuesday night, Councillor E. P. Cummins asked for four or five meetings, saying it was the ratepayers' privilege to hear the candidates, while Councillor L. H. Passmore said he did not care if he did not speak at all.

"I've been here a long time," he said. "I think everyone knows what I stand for."

Councillor H. K. Bate remarked that since two private meetings were scheduled, one meeting at municipal expense was sufficient.

"At a private meeting any candidate can be barred from speaking," Councillor Cummins said.

"It has never happened," Bate answered.

"Oh, yes," Councillor W. C. Castle scorned.

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—Danish authorities could not find anyone to look after Hamlet's legendary castle at Elsinore. The civil defense centre there now has appealed for volunteers for guard and cleaning services in the old castle, scene of revivals of Shakespeare's Hamlet every summer.

Kersey said, "Councillor Passmore and I were at a private meeting three years ago, and were not allowed to speak."

Col. Ogilvie, Riel Rebellion Veteran, Passes

One of the few remaining veterans of the North West Rebellion, Col. George Hunter Ogilvie, 840, Pemberton Road, died early Tuesday at his home. He was 91 years of age.

Born in Campbellford, Ontario, he was a member of the second class to be graduated from Royal Military College, Kingston, in 1882.

In 1885 he joined the Winnipeg Field Battery for service in the Northwest Rebellion, and in 1887 joined the permanent force. During his military career he served at most Canadian establishments, and was mentioned in dispatches for his part in the Boer War.

Col. Ogilvie retired to Victoria in 1938, and was instrumental in forming the R.M.C. Ex-Cadets. He was also a prominent churchman and sergeant-at-arms of the Ontario Legislature from 1924 to 1934.

Remains will lie in state Thursday at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

McLean. Cremation will be at Royal Oak. Hayward's have charge of arrangements.

RESTORED AIRPORT

BERLIN (Reuters)—Tempelhof Airport in West Berlin, main air junction for central Europe before the last war, again leads the list for German passenger traffic. Recent reports show it had a larger number of arrivals and departures than Frankfurt, Hamburg or Dusseldorf.

Photography Salon Shows Excellent Print Choice

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

After weeks of careful selection and preparation, the Victoria Camera Club has opened to the public its 11th annual Victoria International Salon of Photography. The exhibition is being held in the lower lounge of the Empress Hotel.

Out of the hundreds of prints from all parts of the world, there is every evidence that the selection committee has chosen wisely and well. The result is an exhibition of great richness with regard to quality and variety, and one that is supremely interesting to both the expert and the uninitiated viewer.

There is no single item that does not present details of expert craftsmanship; some work is extremely advanced both in conception and execution. There are, of course, most of the familiar and favorite subjects that turn up in each year's salon. Originality and imagination are not missing either; they are at a premium here as anywhere, though, and will be found noticeably in examples of table-top photography such as Lowell Miller's "Pin-Up Chorus," an ingenious delineation with clothes pegs, and in "Spirit Redeemable," by J. Barnes.

Considerate scrutiny of the show as a whole, proves that the best pictures are not dependent necessarily on a fine hand with a camera, but a fine hand and an astute brain in the developing room. Numerous techniques at this stage of "getting the picture" are demonstrated. Screens, timing, papers, treatment of negatives have produced an astonishing variety of effects and textures.

Such pictures as John Springthorpe's "Thunderhead, Astern" and Irvine Dawson's "Two Stars" are among the finest examples of camera art. In certain other instances one wonders why the essential character of photography should be submerged in a mere echo of the etcher's medium. Thunderbird crests have been awarded to a number of prints.

'MIND LIKE GANDHI'S'

Much-Traveled Yoga Swami Excites Awe In Hindus Here

By DICK FRAUL

One of Yoga's top disciples, a burning-eyed young Hindu named Swami Shivanand, was in Victoria today to pause for breath on a five-year round-the-world "cultural" trek.

Swami, a medium-built man of 31 with hypnotic eyes, excited more than a little awe in Victoria's East Indian colony.

"He has a mind something like Gandhi's," whispered a turbaned follower who led the way to the Sikh Temple where Swami is lodging for a few days before going to the U.S.

Swami, who sat stiffly erect keeping his thin, dark topcoat buttoned closely about him as he talked, reeled off a list of countries that he has already visited.

'Bonnie Charlie' Has Third Birthday

LONDON, Nov. 14 (CP)—Prince Charles is three years old today, and he'll have plenty of presents to open even though his father and mother won't be here to help him celebrate.

As for those Canadian gifts which Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are bringing with them, some may be presented as a belated birthday offering and some stowed away until Christmas. Charles seldom receives his presents all at the same time.

The fair-haired baby Prince will spend part of the day with the King and Queen and Princess Margaret. Almost every day since his parents left for Canada, Charles has been taken to see the Queen at Buckingham Palace.

Another party will be given at the week end when Charles and his sister Anne are reunited with their parents.

Belle of the ball at the birthday celebrations undoubtedly will be Princess Anne, who has just learned to walk.

WITH

DODGE
"Job-Rated" TRUCKS

WHAT "JOB-RATED" MEANS

A Dodge "Job-Rated" truck is engineered at the factory to fit a specific job... save you money... last longer. Every unit that SUPPORTS the load — frame, axles, springs, wheels, tires — is engineered right to provide the strength and capacity needed. Every unit that MOVES the load — engine, clutch, transmission, propeller shaft, rear axle — is engineered right to meet a particular operating condition.

Whether your loads are big or little, heavy or light... your roads paved or rough, level or hilly... there's a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck engineered to fit your job.

If you now have too much power or capacity for your particular job, the surplus is being wasted — operating costs will be high. If you have too little power or capacity, the excess strain on your vehicle will result in heavy maintenance cost.

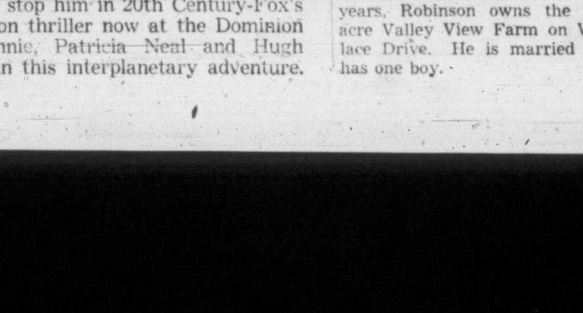

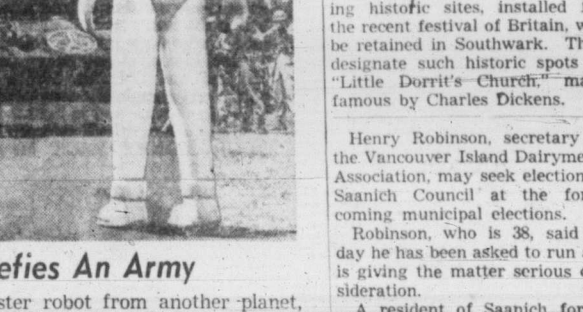

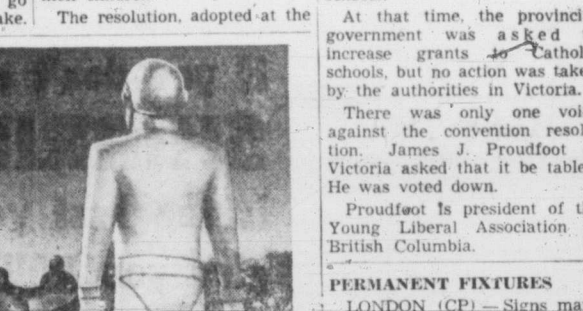

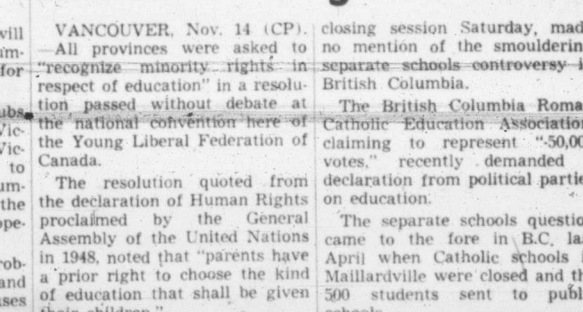

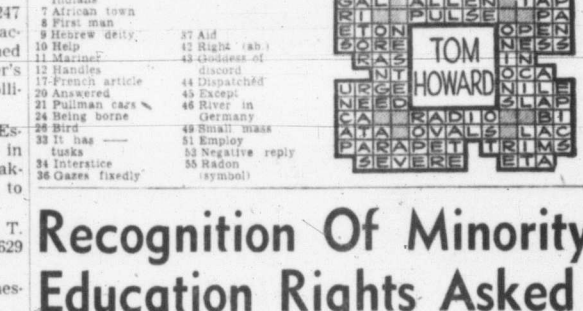

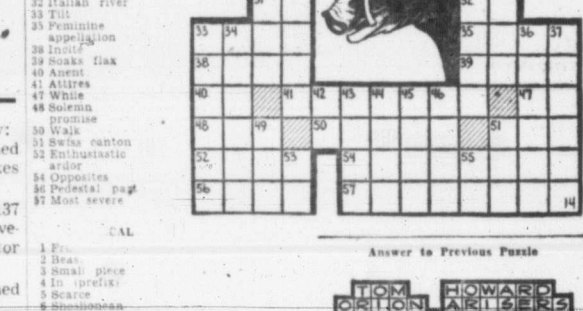

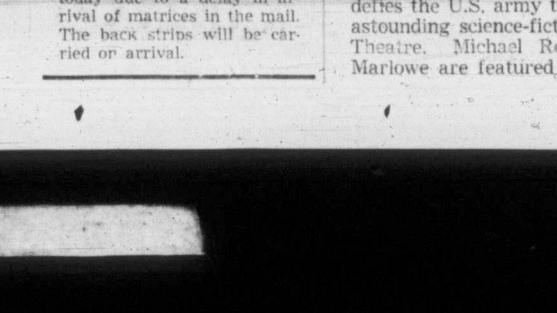

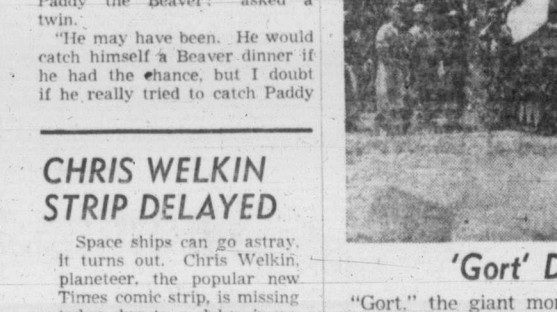

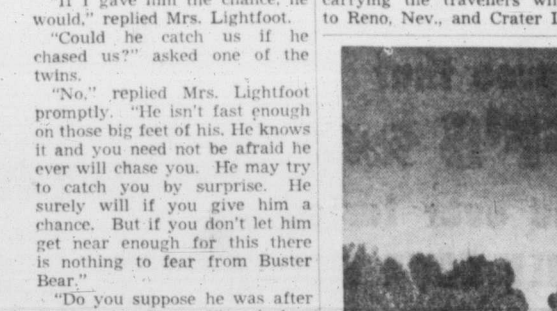

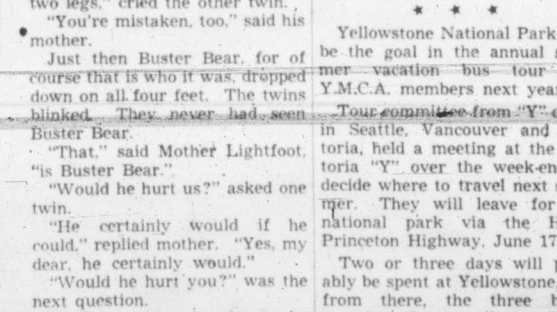

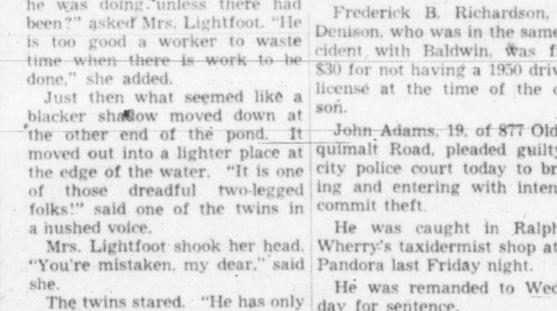

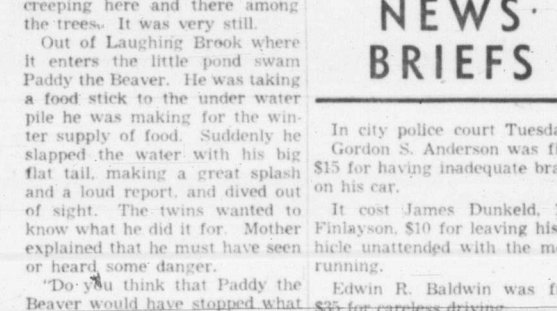

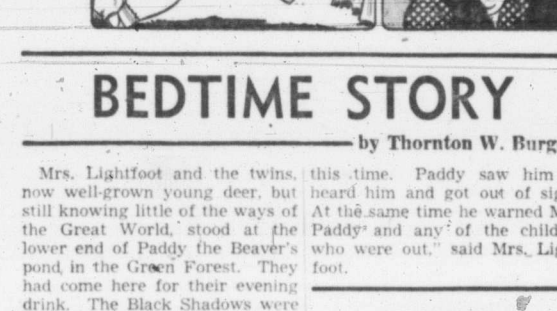

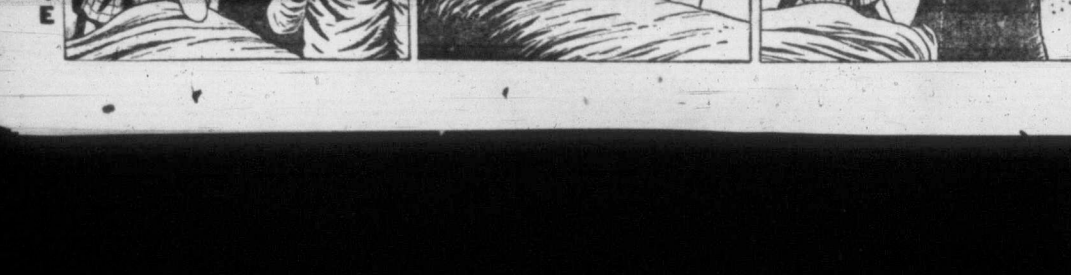

With a Dodge truck that has every unit from engine to rear axle "Job-Rated" — factory-engineered to haul a specific load over the roads you travel and at the speeds you require — it stands to reason that your operating and maintenance costs will be reduced.

For immediate savings and longer truck life, see your nearby Dodge truck dealer.

BEDTIME STORY

—by Thornton W. Burgess

Mrs. Lightfoot and the twins, Paddy and Buster, were still knowing little of the ways of the Great World, stood at the lower end of Paddy the Beaver's pond in the Green Forest. They had come here for their evening drink. The Black Shadows were creeping here and there among the trees. It was very still.

Out of Laughing Brook where it enters the little pond swam Paddy the Beaver. He was taking a food stick to the under water pile he was making for the winter supply of food. Suddenly he slipped the water with his big flat tail, making a great splash and a loud report, and dived out of sight. The twins wanted to know what he did for. Mother explained that he must have seen or heard some danger.

"Do you think that Paddy the Beaver would have stopped what he was doing unless there had been?" asked Mrs. Lightfoot. "He is too good a worker to waste time when there is work to be done," she added.

Just then what seemed like a blacker shadow moved down at the other end of the pond. It moved into a lighter place at the edge of the water. "It is one of those dreadful two-legged folks!" said one of the twins in a hushed voice.

Mrs. Lightfoot shook her head. "You're mistaken, my dear," said she.

The twins stared. "He has only two legs," cried the other twin. "You're mistaken, too," said his mother.

Just then Buster Bear, for of course that is who it was, dropped down on all four feet. The twins blinked. They never had seen Buster Bear.

"That," said Mother Lightfoot, "is Buster Bear."

"Would he hurt us?" asked one twin.

"He certainly would if he could," replied mother. "Yes, my dear, he certainly would."

"Would he hurt you?" was the next question.

"If I gave him the chance, he would," replied Mrs. Lightfoot.

"Could he catch us if he chased us?" asked one of the twins.

"No," replied Mrs. Lightfoot promptly. "He isn't fast enough on those big feet of his. He knows it and you need not be afraid he ever will chase you. He may try to catch you by surprise. He surely will if you give him a chance. But if you don't let him get near enough for this there is nothing to fear from Buster Bear."

"Do you suppose he was after Paddy the Beaver?" asked a twin.

"He may have been. He would catch himself a Beaver dinner if he had the chance, but I doubt if he really tried to catch Paddy

Yellowstone National Park will be the goal in the annual summer vacation bus tour for Y.M.C.A. members next year.

Tour committee from "Y" clubs in Seattle, Vancouver and Victoria, held a meeting at the Victoria "Y" over the week-end to decide where to travel next summer. They will leave for the national park via the Hope-Princeton Highway, June 17.

Two or three days will probably be spent at Yellowstone, and from there, the three buses carrying the travellers will go to Reno, Nev., and Crater Lake.

Recognition Of Minority Education Rights Asked

VANCOUVER, Nov. 14 (CP).—All provinces were asked to recognize minority rights in a resolution passed without debate at the national convention here of the Young Liberal Federation of Canada.

The resolution quoted from the declaration of Human Rights proclaimed by the General Assembly of the United Nations in 1948, noted that "parents have a prior right to choose the kind of education that shall be given their children."

The resolution, adopted at the closing session Saturday, made no mention of the smouldering separate-schools controversy in British Columbia.

The British Columbia Roman Catholic Education Association, claiming to represent "50,000 votes," recently demanded a declaration from political parties on education.

The separate schools question came to the fore in B.C. last April when Catholic schools in Millardville were closed and the 500 students sent to public schools.

At that time, the provincial government was asked to increase grants to Catholic schools, but no action was taken by the authorities in Victoria.

There was only one voice against the convention resolution. James J. Proudfoot of Victoria asked that it be tabled. He was voted down.

Proudfoot is president of the Young Liberal Association of British Columbia.

CITY CHINESE PLAQUEED BY RED RANSOM NOTES

Fear Families' Fate If Extortion Unpaid

(Chinese in Victoria, terror-stricken by threats against the lives of their relatives in the Canton area, told a grim story of Red extortion to the Times today. For reasons of the security of their families in China, the names of Chinese interviewed cannot be divulged.)

The more than 3,000 Chinese in Victoria—and other thousands throughout B.C.—have been stirred to indignation, tinged with terror, by the extortion demands of the Communist government reaching them here.

Thousands of dollars every week are being airmailed or cabled to Hongkong for transfer to the Communist authorities in Canton, to save the lives of relatives of B.C. Chinese.

"Sometimes," said a prominent Chinese today, "our people cannot pay. For instance, a friend of mine was asked by his old father, a man over 80, to send $10,000, urgently. But my friend had no such amount. The old man hanged himself rather than submit to the persecutions of the Communists."

The pattern of extortion is simple. The Communists in Canton, centre of government for the vast Kwangtung area, from which most of the B.C. Chinese originate, give an ultimatum to persons they know have relatives abroad. The ultimatum is this: Pay a certain sum, according to your property holdings, under the new land reform laws or take the consequences. The consequences may be seizure of possessions or death. The property is lost, either way.

NO CERTAINTY

Nor is there any certainty that the payment of extortion will mean immunity in future. There have been no cases of repeated demands for foreign exchange.

"I estimate that at least $30,000 (Hong Kong) are being sent out of Victoria every week. Maybe more," said another well-known Chinese citizen, Victoria-born. "I myself have no relatives in China. But I know many who have."

The Hong Kong dollar is worth about 18 cents.

"What do these extortion notes say? They say: 'Communist government wants so many dollars for ransom. Your family (and the names are given), has been detained,' this authority continued.

"What does it mean? It means that if the money is not sent immediately . . . these people will be liquidated. Maybe they would be liquidated anyway."

TERRIFIED

The doubt and fear inspired by these constant demands is causing great bitterness and grief among the Chinese people.

"We cannot see the end," they say. "We cannot see any end of this but tragedy. Only the elimination of the Communists themselves will save our families. Only death can end their lives of terror and horror. We know the executions are many. We do not know who will be next. Maybe our mothers or fathers, brothers or sisters."

U.N. Planes Sweep Skies And Deal Foe New Blows

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, KOREA, Nov. 14 (AP).—Allied planes today swept North Korean skies without challenge and dealt new blows to the crippled Communist air system.

Far east air forces said B-26 light bombers destroyed eight locomotives in pre-dawn raids. Ten others were reported destroyed in the 24 hours ended at midnight Tuesday.

Allied fighter sweeps through Mt. Alley in northwest Korea before noon Wednesday failed to turn up any Communist jets. It was the fourth straight day the Reds refused to tangle with U.N. planes.

An Eighth Army Wednesday evening communiqué said there was no other significant action along the front.

Allied troops Tuesday beat back two vicious Red attacks at opposite ends of the line.

Late Tuesday night the Reds used about 10 tanks in a mob-like assault west of Chonwon on the western front. Red infantrymen followed under cover of mortar and tank fire.

The Chinese Communists were driven off after a 25-minute battle. At least two of their tanks were claimed destroyed.

On the eastern front, Allied troops counted 618 North Korean bodies on the battlefield after hurling back a co-ordinated attack by five Red battalions.

An Allied tank force pushed about 6,000 yards ahead of U.N. lines above Kumhwa on the central front.

Communists Ask Armistice Now

Any Warfare Halt Has To Be On Foe's Terms

(From UP and AP Dispatches)

PANMUNJOM, Korea, Nov. 14 (UP).—The Communists for the first time today demanded at once and on their own terms a complete Korean cease-fire—on the ground, in the air and at sea.

Red truce negotiators said the cease-fire must come now or never. Unless the Allies yield, they said, they will refuse to go on to other items on the armistice agenda.

United Nations representatives on the cease-fire sub-committee again refused to consent to any reached on such items as the release until an agreement has been reached of thousands of Allied war prisoners.

The stalemate sub-committee nevertheless decided to meet again at 11 a.m. tomorrow (9 p.m. today E.S.T.).

SET RECORD

The sub-committee set a new endurance record Wednesday with a single session of five hours and five minutes against a backdrop of a sharp firefight in the hills southeast of the Panmunjom conference tent.

Brig. Gen. William Nuckols, U.N. spokesman, said the Communists stated their position "clearly and unmistakably."

"They made it clear that what they want is a complete de facto cease-fire not only on the ground, but in the air and on the sea," he said.

Previously the Reds had indicated by their insistence on making the present battle-line the cease-fire line that they envisioned only a truce in the ground fighting until agreement has been reached on other items on the armistice agenda.

Nuckols said the challenge was made by Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang, member of the Red's two-man sub-committee.

Hsieh's challenge came during a wrangle over whether a military demarcation line and buffer zone shall be established now, as the Reds insist, or whether the question shall be postponed until other armistice questions are settled.

The Allies refuse to agree formally to a line now, because they say that would establish an immediate cease-fire. This, they say, would take military pressure off the Reds and enable them to stall on other armistice terms.

Hsieh called this "fantastic talk."

"If that is the course you choose to follow," he said, "then why not stay away."

Sawdust Shortage Here Early

Frost Brings Fuel Concern

Victoria this morning was covered with the heaviest frost of the season, so thick in some districts that it looked like "ole man winter" had moved in overnight.

Many motorists who left their cars outside found a heavy layer of frost on the roofs of their vehicles and in some cases had to scrape ice from their windshields.

The frost was a warning to motorists to fill up with anti-freeze.

In some low-lying areas the mercury registered a low of 30 degrees, but at points near the sea the thermometer did not drop below 36 degrees.

Clear skies and another frosty morning were predicted by the weatherman for Thursday.

Sawdust, the "bad boy" of the fuel family, is acting up again—as usual.

Many dealers, are taking no more orders until January, and according to one office manager many customers have been without sawdust for several weeks.

Reasons for the shortage are the same as in previous years, with lack of storage space in homes and general scarcity of fire leading the list.

A new complication was added this year in the 10-weeks woods closure during the summer.

"We usually manage to move quite a bit of sawdust in July and August, but we were cut off completely this year," a dealer said. "We will never catch up this winter."

In other departments the fuel situation is fair.

Vancouver Stocks Closing Prices

No appreciable changes were recorded on the Vancouver Stock Exchange this afternoon. Active trading closed at 2:23-25 for a slight gain, and Silver advanced a penny at 147.

The bid on Canadian Atlantic advanced 5 cents to 7.55, while British was firm at 6.20. Alberta Distillers sold at 3.00 for a gain of 10 cents.

B.C. Road Blocks Follow Robbery

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Nov. 14 (CP).—Road blocks today were set up at key central British Columbia centres by R.C.M.P. following a $6,000 robbery here.

Police said they believe an organized gang that has robbed premises in Terrace, Smithers and Burns Lake in central B.C. was responsible for the theft of a 600-pound safe containing $4,000 in cash and $2,000 in negotiable cheques from Mackenzie's men's store here.

Spare Christmas For Britons

LONDON, Nov. 14 (Reuters).—Britons will have to forego their usual Christmas bonus in rationed foods this year, but will have their normal weekly ration allotment increased from three ounces to four. Food Minister Wilm Lloyd George announced today.

'Open' Ranking For Baseball

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP).—Baseball today proposed an "open" classification through which high ranking minor leagues would move to major league status.

The proposal, to be submitted to the majors and minors at their December meetings, was the result of four committee meetings to consider the Pacific Coast League problem.

Women's 'Resurrection' May Alter Death Thesis

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14 (UP).—San Francisco physicians, amazed at the sudden improvement in a woman who was believed to have been dead for 10 hours, said today opinions on the criteria of death may have to be altered.

The woman, Mrs. Theresa Butler, regained consciousness and talked rationally Tuesday for the first time since she was pronounced dead six days ago.

City Health Director J. C. Geiger said from all medical information now available, Mrs. Butler will recover completely.

Dr. Thomas E. Albers, San Francisco hospital superintendent, said he "just can't explain" Mrs. Butler's recovery despite an apparent shortage of oxygen in her system for several hours prior to her revival on the steps of the morgue Thursday.

"It just can't happen," Albers said, "but it has. I feel sure that the entire staff of doctors taking care of her feels the same way."

Appealing Orphans

If the kitten and the pup don't look happy it's because they haven't a home. They're living as wards of the S.P.C.A. That's Mrs. Maureen Maggs, wife of the S.P.C.A. inspector, holding them. The kitten and the pup are among a number of dogs and cats at the S.P.C.A. shelter up for adoption. The puppy has had a rough life so far. She was taken from her mother and abandoned. She'd caught pneumonia before she was found and given shelter. The Springer spaniel pup was turned out of an apartment by a landlord who didn't like dogs. They are free for the asking to any family which will promise to give them a good home. (Times Photo)

Saskatchewan Farmers Claim Unfair Practise

Charge Unfair Box Car Distribution In Grain Tie-Up; Conference Tomorrow

WINNIPEG, Nov. 14 (CP).—Unfair distribution of box cars and the grain tie-up have left Saskatchewan farmers in a position "almost worse than if they had a crop failure," J. L. Phelps of Saskatoon, president of the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union, said today.

Later, with Jake Schultz of Grandview, Man., president of the Manitoba Farmers' Union, he met officials of the Canadian Wheat Board to discuss farm grievances.

The delegation, representing the unions of the three Prairie provinces, will meet with board of grain commissioners here Thursday.

Appointment of a transport commissioner (R. W. Milner of Winnipeg) had not done much to improve the situation, Phelps said.

About 700 points in Saskatchewan had not been able to accept delivery of grain in the last five weeks, he said, because there were no cars to carry it from plugged elevators.

The situation was worse on the branch lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Phelps said. "And the farmers are getting pretty mad."

The Saskatchewan union proposed to have the government pay for farm storage of undeliverable grain and also make a percentage of an initial payment on it.
